Henry Ford's "Today"
He Supports Coolidge
And Gives Reasons
What About California?
Current Events
—By Arthur Brisbane—

Copyright, 1924, Star Co.

THIS WRITER telegraphed Henry Ford, asking why he supported Coolidge. The answer, which you may read below, makes Henry Ford the editor of this column for today.

Mr. Ford's wire from Dearborn, Mich., received over the telephone from Ford headquarters in New York city, reads:

To Arthur Brisbane,
New York City.

In reply to your telegram:

I support Calvin Coolidge and confidently expect his election for the following reasons:

Our government has been freer of the influence of money power during Calvin Coolidge's brief administration than for a long time before.

BUSINESS AND MONEY POWER.

He understands the difference between American business and money power. American business is the means by which we earn our living, and supplies the needs of the country. Agriculture, manufacture and transportation are its three pillars. It is constructive. The money power represents the exploiting, gambling and destructive counterfeits of business.

USE AND PROFIT.

Two systems of business confront each other in this country—production for use as against production for profits only. Calvin Coolidge is on the side of production service and prosperity.

He is increasing the number of jobs in this country by drawing back into business the moneys that have been driven out by high taxes. The greatest prosperity will not arrest Calvin Coolidge's drive against high taxes.

OUR AMERICAN COURSE.

He is sprung from the old American stock which went South and West and fixed our American course, and he will hold the government steady to that course.

He is short on promises and long on action.

In our business we prefer the doers to the talkers. I want as good or better service for the nation as we insist upon in the Ford Motor Company.

AMERICANS ARE INTELLIGENT.

Why all this talk about throwing the election into Congress? Who would want that except those who cannot hope to control the people, but could easily control Congress? Such a mistake would indicate that Americans are not intelligent enough to decide an election—and that is not the case. Americans are able to elect their own President, and they are on guard against all efforts to cheat them out of that right.

POLITICIANS DO NOT LIKE HIM.

I believe in Calvin Coolidge, regardless of party, because he is an honest, able man, with a task that deserves the help of all forward-minded men, regardless of party. I like him because he knows how to think, because he can see clearly and because the politicians do not like him.

HENRY FORD.

VERY LIKE Mr. Ford in the statement, "I like him (Coolidge) because he knows how to think, because he can see clearly and BECAUSE THE POLITICIANS DO NOT LIKE HIM."

There is nothing as important to this country as the work to be done next Tuesday. Henry Ford, who gives work to tens of thousands of men at high wages, is entitled to a hearing on business conditions, prosperity and the probable effect of the election on both.

The great war was an illness of all the nations; it attacked and hurt them all. The problem now is recovery from that war. Ford, who does an annual business of more than a billion dollars, believes that Calvin Coolidge is the man best fitted to the task of keeping hard times away and continuing prosperity.

WHAT ABOUT California? That is one big question

REPORT HE LACKED NEEDED ABILITY

President W. W. Atwood's Administration Is Criticised as Weak in Places

A "series of grave administrative errors" have been committed by President Wallace W. Atwood and the trustees of Clark University, Worcester, since 1920.

This is the burden of a report made public today by a committee of the American Association of University Professors, named to investigate conditions at Clark.

President Atwood and the trustees were severely criticized for failing to consult the faculty before introducing a new "plan of life" which has not been justified by success."

Pres. Atwood.

The head of the institution was also accused of lacking the attributes necessary to the executant of the new policy, namely "a high degree of tact, administrative wisdom, coolness and good humor under opposition, fairness in controversy and ability to see another man's point of view."

FAILED TO SEE FACTS.

The policy in question consisted of "eliminating or reducing several of the existing departments in order to establish a new school of geography of which President Atwood is head and to which more than 30 per cent. of the departmental funds are devoted."

The report further charges that Dr. Atwood "seriously misconceived the realities of the situation," when he considered agitation at the university to be due to resentment on the part of a small group of radical professors because he closed the Scott Nearing meeting of the student Liberal Club.

The committee was headed by Professor Arthur O. Lovejoy of Johns Hopkins and included Professors John M. Brewer of Harvard, Robert K. Root of Princeton and H. S. White of Vassar.

HEADED MERGED SCHOOLS.

In 1920 Clark University and Clark College were combined and Dr. Atwood, then a Harvard professor, was appointed head of both.

Dr. Atwood was connected with the U. S. Geographical Survey for twenty years and was an author of note on geographical matters.

In 1922 he roused the ire of the student body by breaking up a meeting of the Liberal Club at which a lecture by Professor Scott Nearing, noted radical, was being given.

The breach between the president and faculty was widened in June of 1923, as a result of the suicide of Professor Arthur Gordon Webster of the department of physics. Since that time there has been considerable friction, and the professorial committee was eventually appointed.

FAVORED OWN SCHOOL.

"In 1920 when Clark College and Clark University came for the first time under one president," the report said, "the newly appointed Dr. W. W. Atwood, the trustees were confronted with a difficult situation, chiefly financial, which made essential some concentration and reorganization of the activities of the graduate school.

"But instead of building on the foundation already laid, the trustees,

STOCKING BANK IS ROBBED OF $150

MRS. DORA GOLDBLATT

Malden woman who was bound, gagged and robbed of $150, hidden in her stocking, by three bandits who attacked her as she entered her own apartment at No. 75 Essex street, after a visit next door to her daughter, Mrs. Sarah Weiner (above) who was the first to discover her mother's plight and released her.

Quits Pulpit to Cut Expenses of Church

New Bedford, Oct. 31.—"To lighten the financial burden of the parish in the present period of industrial depression" is the novel reason given by Rev. Arthur E. Koch for resigning as curate of the Grace Episcopal Church. The clergyman expressed the belief that if his parishioners are relieved of the need of paying his salary, the church will be better able to meet its debts.

Mr. Koch came here after his graduation from Cambridge Theological School, last June. He has returned to his home in Malden.

FORMER OPERATIC STAR DIES AT NEW BEDFORD

New Bedford, Oct. 31.—Mrs. William R. Swift of Cincinnati, formerly well known in the musical world as Madame Louise Dotti, died at St. Luke's Hospital here today. She was seventy-nine years old. Madame Dotti was a member of Colonel Mapleson's grand opera company in the eighties.

BANDITS BIND, GAG, MALDEN WOMAN

Malden police inspectors today are searching for three men who entered the home of Mrs. Dora Goldblatt, No. 75 Essex street, Malden, bound and gagged her and then relieved her of $150 which she had kept in her stocking.

Police officials stated that if the men were strangers in the district they would have chosen several chain grocery stores in the vicinity for a possible holdup rather than Mrs. Goldblatt.

The woman was found lying in the hallway of her home in a semi-conscious condition by her daughter, Mrs. Sarah Werner, who lives in an adjoining apartment.

According to Mrs. Goldblatt's story to the police, she had just returned from her daughter's apartment and as she entered her own hallway three men, all strangers, grabbed her and beat her until she was unconscious. One of the men she says had a gun. The other two gagged her with two neck scarfs taken from a hall coat hanger.

PASTOR'S SON HELD AS ROBBER

Taken in Los Angeles and Charged With Stealing $15,000 in Gems in Worcester

A minister's son, former Boston University student, was captured in Los Angeles today, ending a nine months' chase that began last February when he is alleged to have figured in a sensational Worcester jewelry store holdup.

Jewels valued at $15,000 were snatched by the daring robber, who "stuck up" the shop of Edward F. Brady in broad daylight at the point of a gun, while scores of pedestrians passed the door.

According to the Los Angeles police, the minister's son, who is Albert L. N. Gross, son of the Rev. Albert F. Gross, rector of the South Grove Episcopal Church, has confessed to the holdup.

He also admitted, the authorities say, to serving a jail term in Louisiana for robbery. He was released from this sentence for heroism in the Mississippi flood of 1923, according to his story.

Worcester police authorities will go to Los Angeles to bring the minister's son back for trial.

"WALKING BARROOM" TAKEN IN SOMERVILLE

Two "walking barrooms" were arrested by Sergeant Lynch and Patrolmen Lacey and Smith of the Somerville police liquor squad on Broadway, Somerville, today.

The men, Guiseppe Vendetti, fifteen years of age, and Vincenzo Tedda, nineteen, both of New York, had eighteen quarts of liquor in their possession. They will appear in the Somerville Court tomorrow.

ITALIAN PRINCE HAS WON NEW YORK GIRL

Albany, N. Y., Oct. 31.—Former Senator Henry M. Sage, announced today the engagement of his daughter, Katherine Lin Sage, to Prince Manieri Di San Fausto, member of an ancient Roman family in Italy. The wedding is expected to take place in the Spring. Miss Sage is an art student in Florence.

Medford Autoist Fined $100

Harry J. Dunbar of No. 127 Harvard street, Medford, was fined $100 by Judge Charles S. Sullivan in the Charlestown Court today for operating an automobile on Main street, Charlestown, on October 20 in reckless manner, causing injury to Timothy Dempsey of No. 87 Winchester street, Medford, and going away without making himself known. Dunbar appealed and was held in $500 for the November term of the Superior Court.

Administration Peace Policies Set Forth by Secretary Davis

"Necessary Security Can Be Realized Only by Rational Preparation for Defense," Says Coolidge Adviser.

Following is the fifth of a series of articles on the Coolidge administration, written for the Hearst newspapers by members of the Cabinet and others officially prominent in the Republican Party. Another article will follow tomorrow.

By JAMES J. DAVIS
Secretary of Labor

Washington, Oct. 31.—The policy of this Administration is peace. But it is peace based upon security and justice. It believes that the security essential to peace can be realized only by a rational preparation for defense. It is opposed to militarism, but is in favor of an adequate force to execute the law at home and maintain our rights abroad.

The military establishment of the country has a direct influence upon the working people of the country. Where all industry is put under a heavy tax to maintain a great Army and Navy, the money so used can neither be expended in wages, nor for opening highways, advancing the cause of education, or generally bettering the condition of the people.

Army and Navy Tax on People

Where many men are employed in military activities they are taken from the productive side of life, which means that they cannot be raising food, manufacturing clothing, building shelter or providing those necessaries and conveniences, the abundance of which enables us to have a high standard of living. Wherever a country has kept up a great military establishment, wages and the standard of living have necessarily been low and class distinctions have been emphasized.

TRAIN STRIKES TRUCK; TWO MEN DYING

Medfield, Oct. 31.—Three East Weymouth men were injured, two of them fatally, when a truck loaded with paving stones in which they were riding was struck by a locomotive at the Main street crossing here.

The victims, who were taken to Leonard Morris Hospital, Natick, were Leo Chamberlain, thirty years old, of Madison square, East Weymouth; Roy Hollis, thirty-two years, of No. 102 Shawmut avenue, and Fred Farrar, thirty-one years, of No. 24 Riley avenue.

Chamberlain and Hollis, the driver, both of whom are married and have two children each, were so badly injured it was said they would die. Farrar was thrown several yards, landing on the engine cowcatcher. He sustained cuts and bruises.

A hole was torn in the back of Chamberlain's head, while Hollis sustained injuries to the back and bad cuts on the head.

The locomotive, driven by Engineer J. A. Winslow, was pulling a

NEW JERSEY SUICIDE HAS SALEM RELATIVES

Plainfield, N. J., Oct. 31.—Joseph Foley, an insurance agent, whose sister and two brothers live in Salem, Mass., was found dead in bed at his boarding house today with a tube in his mouth attached to an open gas jet.

65 LIVES PLACED IN PERIL

Oil-Soaked Rags Are Found in Tenement; Six Horses Perish at Winthrop

Firebugs are suspected of having applied the torch in three Greater Boston fires today, driving a total of 65 persons into the chill early hour breezes, making two men unconscious and taking the lives of six horses.

Total damage through the three fires is estimated at well over $10,000.

In East Boston forty persons fled the flames in their night clothing when fire of undoubted incendiary origin started in the three-story wooden tenement building at No. 42 Porter street.

Three distinct fires were found blazing in the basement of this house in small piles of paper, from which gasoline or oil could be smelled.

LODGERS OVERCOME.

Two men lodgers were overcome and twenty-five others were driven from the building at No. 23 Howard street by fire starting in a restaurant on the first floor.

Patrolmen Heffernan and O'Donnell of the Joy street station led many lodgers through the smoke to safety.

The safety of soldiers in the sick bay of Fort Banks, Winthrop, was endangered at an early hour, when flames destroyed the Taylor boarding stable at No. 15 Taylor street, directly opposite the barracks, burning six horses to death, with a total loss of $10,000.

A sentry on post discovered the fire and fired two shots, the fire signal

ATTEMPT TO BURN LOWELL CATHOLIC CHURCH

Lowell, Oct. 31.—The second attempt to burn the French Roman Catholic Church of St. Jean de Baptiste within a week was discovered today. A woman kneeling in prayer saw a man drop a lighted match in the choir loft. She notified Rev. Louis Bachand, O. M. I., assistant pastor, who investigated and found floor and benches in the choir loft to be saturated with oil. The police were notified and a heavy guard was thrown around the church buildings and pastors of other churches were without the knowledge of the faculty, adopted the policy of eliminating or reducing several of the existing departments in order to establish a new school of geography, of which President Atwood is head and to which more than thirty per cent of the departmental funds are devoted.

VENTURE NOT JUSTIFIED.

"The committee is of opinion that the presumption against so radical a change in the character of the institution was strong, that the circumstances of Clark University were not favorable for such an undertaking, and that this ambitious educational venture has not been justified by success."

As the most important of a "series of grave administrative errors" in connection with the application of the new policy, the committee named the failure to consult with the faculty.

POLICY IS CRITICISED.

"That matters of educational policy should not be decided by a lay governing board of a university without ascertaining the opinion of the educational staff is a usually accepted principle," the report said.

"If it were commonly disregarded the future of American higher education would not be hopeful.

"The charge that he (Atwood) is indifferent to scientific research as such does not seem to be established" the report added. "On the other hand, it is true that his administration has been more distinguished by the addition of a Summer school, correspondence courses and athletic field and a dormitory than by any increase in the research activities of the university."

ROOSEVELT DEFENDS SECRECY IN OIL DEAL

New York, Oct. 31.—In commenting on testimony at the government's suit in Los Angeles to cancel the Elk Hills naval oil leases to the effect that, as Assistant Secretary of the Navy, he had ordered secrecy in connection with Pearl Harbor storage project negotiations, Theodore Roosevelt said today that the matter had been one of routine in the Navy Department.

"The testimony speaks for itself," he asserted. "I took that action at the advice of all the high naval officials."

COLLEGE PROFESSORS INDORSE PROGRESSIVES

Washington, Oct. 31.—LaFollette-Wheeler headquarters today made public an endorsement of the Independent ticket and platform signed by sixty-three professors of economics and sociology, and 150 professors of history, religion, law, anthropology, languages, literature, psychology and agriculture.

"The time is ripe," said the statement in part, "for a realignment in American politics in such a way as to make our parties stand for fundamental issues."

Seven to One Odds Continue on Coolidge

Washington, Oct. 31 (Universal).—A survey of betting commissioners indicated odds of seven to one continued to prevail for Coolidge in the Presidential election.

Most of the enthusiasm in betting on the election took place in pool rooms, cigar stores and the neighboring racing show at Laurel, Md., it was reported. Brokerage houses reported a falling off in number of bets posted.

SO. END CHILD HIT BY AUTO MAY DIE

While crossing Massachusetts avenue at Shawmut avenue, Eugene Gray, six years old, of No. 192 Northampton street, South End, was struck and severely injured by an automobile truck, owned by the Vonee Electric Supply Company and operated by C. J. Marshall. The child was taken to the City Hospital, where his name was placed on the danger list, suffering from multiple injuries.

Panama, Oct. 31.—The condition of John W. Riddle, American Ambassador to Argentina, who is suffering from acute rheumatism, is not much improved and the doctors fear he may be confined to the hospital here for two weeks and perhaps longer.

JUDGE SCORES U. S. ATTORNEY IN RUM CASE

"Tried to Correct Gross Misconduct by Another Department," Says Justice

Assistant U. S. Attorney Laurence Curtis was criticised by Judge James M. Morton in Federal Court today for "endeavoring to correct gross misconduct on the part of another service of the government."

The court's statement was made after Attorney Mathew L. McGrath declared Attorney Curtis had admitted a prize coastguard crew had pilfered the alleged rum-running schooner Marjorie E. Bachman.

Continuing, Judge Morton said Attorney Curtis went beyond his duty. "It would have been well enough," he added, "if he had left the officers of the other service to stand or fall by their own actions."

The incident marked the climax of a controversy between Attorney McGrath and Curtis which has been going on since Monday.

Today's outbreak occurred when Mcgrath, who is counsel for Captain Harry Ritzey and Supercargo Harold Young of the Bachman, filed a motion for an order to prevent Curtis from interfering with his clients.

MAGRATH'S STORY.

Mcgrath said that he was retained to look after the interests of Ritzey and Young when the Lunenberg, N. S., schooner, seized as a rum runner, was brought into this port Monday forenoon. After making several ineffectual efforts to locate his clients, Mcgrath said he was told at noon by Attorney Curtis he might see them at 2 p. m. As a matter of fact, according to Attorney Mcgrath, he did not see the men until Thursday afternoon when he was given permission to go aboard the Bachman by Deputy Surveyor Thomas F. Finnegan.

Mcgrath also declared that after presenting a list of articles taken from the Bachman's crew, he learned his clients were in the Federal building. Going to the marshal's office, he failed to find them and not until an hour and forty minutes later did he discover them in Attorney Curtis' office.

He said he found Attorney Curtis "trying to intimidate and browbeat the crew" into taking one-half the cash value of articles which they had missed. On his arrival, Attorney Mcgrath said, Curtis raised the offer to two-thirds the cash value, with the words: "This is the last offer you'll get. Take it or leave it. You can sue the U. S. government if you want to. Try and get it."

WITHDRAWS MOTION.

In reply to Mcgrath's charges, Curtis told Judge Morton he was called into the case at 11:30 a. m. Monday and worked all day on it. On Tuesday he said he got six indictments, two for Ritzey and Young and four for United States boatmen. He then went to the schooner and

Somerville Woman Foils Confidence Men in Cambridge

A pair of confidence men tried to fleece Mrs. Mary Mason of No. 189 Somerville avenue, Somerville, in Cambridge. But Mrs. Mason was "wise."

The confidence men accosted her at the corner of Massachusetts avenue and Columbia street and showed her a big wad of money, which, they said, they had just picked up in the gutter.

With a fine display of generosity the strangers told Mrs. Mason they felt she should share in their good fortune. They suggested that undoubtedly she had a bank account, and that if she would draw her deposit and pool it with the money they had found, they would pass back to her one-third of the sum total.

returned some of the money, papers and effects taken from the crew. The offer of two-thirds the cash value, he said, was the customary insurance offer in settlements giving new for old.

Judge Morton said in view of the fact no further misconduct was anticipated, he did not think the order should issue. At the conclusion of his statement Attorney Mgrath withdrew his motion, "in order to prevent further hard feelings."

20 DRIVEN OUT BY FIRE IN ROXBURY TENEMENT

A score of persons, including fifteen children, were driven into the street clad in their sleeping garments, when fire was discovered in the three-story house at No. 237 Quincy street, Roxbury.

The first floor of the building was occupied by the family of Mrs. Messie Myer, mother of five children, all of whom were asleep when the fire was discovered. The family of Morris Kessinan on the second floor and the family of Benjamin Goodstein on the third floor each numbers five children among its members. All these were aroused and escaped the flames.

The fire was extinguished with a loss of $1,000.

SUSPECT FIREBUG AS 42 FAMILIES FLEE

New York, Oct. 31.—Two tenement house fires believed to have been of incendiary origin occurred today in the upper west side district which was terrorized recently by the actions of a pyromaniac. Forty-two families were driven from their homes today. The first blaze was in a house in West Ninety-ninth street, in which twenty-six families lived. While the firemen were fighting this blaze, another broke out in a Columbus avenue house around the corner. Sixteen families lived in this house. Several of the tenants were rescued by policemen.

CLEAN BILL FOR FIRPO BY FEDERAL GRAND JURY

New York, Oct. 31.—A Federal Grand Jury today refused to return an indictment against Luis Angel Firpo, accused by Cannon William S. Chase of having committed perjury when he came from the Argentine, last Summer for his fight with Harry Wills.

STATE HEALTH CHIEF HUNTS 'LOONEY GAS'

Commissioner Kelley Seeks to Test Deadly Fumes on Small Animals

A hunt for any "Looney Gas" that might possibly be on sale in Massachusetts, was begun today by Dr. Eugene R. Kelley, commissioner of the State Department of Health.

"Looney Gas" chemically is tetraethyl, a substance that already has taken to lives of five Standard Oil Research Laboratory employes in Bigway, N. J. Forty-four other victims are ill in New Jersey and New York.

It is a substance that has been experimented with by Standard Oil in an attempt to increase the efficiency of gasoline for motors and to eliminate knocking.

If Doctor Kelley discovers "Looney gas" on sale in Massachusetts, he will test its effect on small animals, he said. With humans the new gas has a tendency to produce hallucinations preceding dangerous illness. From this trait, it derives its nickname.

Distribution and sale of the compound in New York and New Jersey cities has been banned, although Standard Oil officials assert that in the diluted form in which it is used in automobiles the substance is harmless.

Dr. Kelley said he had an opinion from Herman N. C. Lythgoe, chief State chemist, that tetra-ethyl, once exploded in the cylinders, would be sufficiently burned to be harmless as exhaust, unlike the carbon monoxide gas at present expelled through the exhaust.

Chemist Lythgoe also said that tetra-ethyl could not now be bought for less than $50 a gallon, which would make its universal use prohibitive.

This train, known as "C.B.&." was in charge of Conductor C. Nennec, and was bound from Taunton to Framingham.

The locomotive struck the stone-laden truck amidships and hurled it to one side. All the occupants of the truck, which was the property of the Globe Construction Company of East Weymouth, were thrown out.

The train was brought to a stop, and an ambulance obtained which took the injured to the hospital.

U. S. Official Chemists Find Danger Remote

Washington, Oct. 31.—Investigation by chemists of the Bureau of Mines into the effects of fumes from commercial gasoline containing tetra-ethyl has indicated that the danger of poisoning from such gases is extremely remote.

It is pointed out that the deaths of five men employed at the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey laboratory was due to poisoning encountered in the manufacture of concentrated tetra-ethyl, a product which is not sold to automobilists except when diluted so that the mixture comprises only one part tetra-ethyl lead to one thousnad parts of gasoline by volume.

NO. 2 ASKS CAMBRIDGE WIFE TO SHARE HUBBY

EX-ATHLETE IS HELD IN CHICAGO AS BIGAMIST

A strange request that she agree to share her husband and his income with another woman has been made of Mrs. Mildred Moody, of No. 54 Austin street, Cambridge.

Mrs. Moody is the wife of Arthur W. Moody, twenty-five years old, former star athlete at Rindge Tech, and the strange request came from the "other woman," Miss Esther Gabrei of Chicago.

Instead of agreeing to share her husband and his income with the Chicago woman, Mrs. Moody has sanctioned the return of her husband to this State from Chicago by the police authorities. Moody not only faces charges of desertion and non-support but bigamy, as well, it being alleged that he married the Gabrei girl in the "Windy City," last January.

The arrest of Moody in Chicago and the unusual telegram received by the Cambridge wife, mark the climax of a youthful romance that was almost as unusual as the present developments.

ELOPED FROM CAMBRIDGE.

Young Moody was a star football and hockey player at Rindge. He was the hero of the school. Among his admirers, none more faithfully cheered his deeds of prowess than little Mildred Brownell, pretty and youthful student at the Cambridge English High School.

The English High beauty met the young athlete at a school dance. It was a case of love at first sight and within a few weeks the couple eloped.

The girl stepped from the class room of the high school into her own home. A year later, a son, christened John A. Moody, was born to the couple.

Young Moody, after his marriage gave up school and went to work.

Several years passed and the glamor of the juvenile romance began to fade. A year ago the young husband told his wife he was going to New Hampshire to work and that he would send for her.

CHILD IN CHICAGO.

Instead, he went to Chicago and it is now claimed that last January he was married to the Gabrei girl. A child was born to the pair several weeks ago.

Meanwhile, the Cambridge girl was being supported by her relatives. When she learned of her husband's second marriage she consulted District Attorney Heading and a warrant was finally secured for the arrest of the former gridiron star on the charge of desertion and non-support.

Moody was arrested. Then came the strange message from the Chicago "wife" to the Cambridge girl, asking if she was "willing to smoothe things over" if Moody divided his income between the two "wives."

Cambridge officers will return Moody to that city for arraignment, later in the week, providing Chicago authorities waive the bigamy charge which is threatened there.

SPAIN TRANQUIL, SAYS EMBASSY STATEMENT

Washington, Oct. 31.—The Spanish embassy, in a statement issued here today, declared tranquility prevailed in Spain.

News from Africa, the statement also said, is "improving every day. The withdrawal towards Xalen is being carried out with regularity and practically without any losses.

FT. BANKS SOLDIERS FIGHT FIRE

BLAZE IN STABLE GIVES WINTHROP SCARE

Uncle Sam's soldier boys are just as efficient in front of a fire as they are under fire. At bottom of picture are Robert F. Welch (at left), and Arthur F. McKay of Battery A, manning the hose at a stable fire near Fort Banks, Winthrop. These men are but two of the 300 who volunteered their services. At top of picture (left to right) are Marjorie Underwood, Dorothy Maloy and Esther Matthews, whose home near the stable were in danger of being destroyed.

FIREBUGS PUT LIVES OF 65 IN PERIL

nal. Edward McCarthy, who lives across the street, also saw the blaze.

Several soldiers rushed to the sick bay of the fort to reassure their comrades and stand by if necessity demanded, while 300 other soldiers raced to aid the firemen.

The barn was located in the heart of the congested tenement district and a conflagration was averted only because of the absence of a strong wind.

Children and grown-ups living in the vicinity of the Winthrop fire turned out to watch the soldiers and firemen at work. Among them was Marjorie Underwood, Dorothy Maloy and Esther Matthews, whose homes are near the scene of the blaze.

2 CLOSED BANKS HAVE CASH FOR DEPOSITORS

Hanover Trust to Pay 17 Per Cent. and Cosmopolitan 10 Per Cent.

Commercial department depositors of the closed Hanover Trust and Cosmopolitan Trust companies will receive some unexpected Christmas money.

Judge Carroll of the Supreme Court today authorized Bank Commissioner Allen to award a dividend of 17 per cent. to Hanover depositors and 10 per cent. to Cosmopolitan depositors.

The dividend authorized for the Hanover depositors today makes 52 per cent they have received. Fitz Henry Smith, liquidating agent of the bank, stated that if he were not required to hold between $50,000 and $60,000 claimed unclaimed deposits a larger dividend could be paid.

Previous to today's dividend Cosmopolitan commercial depositors have been paid 18 per cent. Henry O. Cushman, liquidating agent, has $1,368,059 to meet the dividend. Savings department depositors of the Cosmopolitan have been paid 77 per cent.

SOMERVILLE COURT GIVES MULROY WATCH

James T. Mulroy, who resigned as probation officer in the Somerville District Court, after twelve years' service, was presented a gold watch and chain, the gift of the officials of the court at the close of the session. The three judges, Malcolm E. Stanton, Michael F. Farrell and Ralph M. Smith were on the bench, when Judge Sturtevant called Mulroy to the clerk's desk and commended him for faithful and conscientious service. Mr. Mulroy will enter the employ of the Boston School Committee. He will be succeeded tomorrow morning by James H. White, for thirteen years a chauffeur and patrol wagon driver in the Somerville Police Department.

POOR BOX ROBBER SAYS HE NEEDED THE MONEY

New York, Oct. 31.—When John E. Quinlan faced Judge Stasse in the police court at East Orange, N. J., charged with robbing the poor box of St. Joseph Church he told the court he was an insurance agent, hadn't written a policy in six months, and "needed the money."

'LOONEY HOOCH' CAUSES HAVOC IN WEST END

"Looney hooch," more potent in its action than New York's "looney gas," has made its appearance in Boston.

As a result of the introduction of the "looney hooch" in the West End, two apartments are as completely wrecked as though swept by a cyclone, and five men and two women, suffering from bloody noses, bruises, etc., are awaiting the pleasure of the municipal court judges.

Never before, declare the police, have they run into liquor which brought on such terrific results.

At the apartment of Millard Lynch at No. 8 Parkman street, the raiding party stepped into wrecked rooms. Gas was pouring from the open pipes in the apartment, the fixtures having been twisted and torn from the wall.

A bed was the only piece of furniture that appeared to have escaped the melee. In the bed the police found Lynch and his brother, George. On the floor lay Mrs. Jennie Lynch, wife of Millard. All were unconscious, but whether from the hooch or the escaping gas the police could not tell. Also, all three had bruised and bleeding noses.

At the apartment of Charles Wood at No. 14 Wall street, police found an entirely similar condition. Wood and his wife Annie and two guests, Mike Cronan of No. 35 Warrenton street, South End, and James Sullivan of No. 76 Carver street, South End, staged a little party. They partook of the hooch and then wrecked the apartment, after which they turned to beating up one another.

All seven taken in the two raids were locked up in the Jay street station pending their appearance in court.

EXTORTIONIST IN JEWEL ROBBERY GETS 2½ YEARS

New York, Oct. 31.—Norman H. Pike, who claimed to be a civil engineer, was given a two and one-half years' sentence in Sing Sing prison today by general session for attempting to extort $100 from a servant in the employ of Miss Edith Bobe, a modiste, who was robbed of jewels by bandits that included her East Sixty-third street apartment several weeks ago. Pike was arrested after the mold had made a telephone appointment to meet him on a street corner, where, he said, he could give her a clew to the bandits. He later admitted, the police said, he had feigned knowledge of the perpetrators for extortion purposes.

Ringworm Checked

Paris, Oct. 31.—The ringworm, once prevalent among French children of school age, has been almost stamped out by the use of X-ray, the method having been devised by Dr. Sabouraud. He says a saving of nearly 2,000,000 francs a year has been effected in Paris alone.

"DICKIE" LOEB NOT MENTIONED IN WILL

Chicago, Oct. 31.—Albert H. Loeb, capitalist and mail order house official, who died Monday, left his entire estate to his wife, Mrs. Anna Loeb, according to the will filed. The value of the estate was given as $3,000,000. The document was executed November 4, 1918. No mention was made of any of the children except a son, Allan, who was named as executor.

THOUSANDS SEE SHIP BURNED IN HARBOR

The steamship Coyote, one of the wooden freighters built by the Shipping Board as a war emergency fleet, was burned on the beach at Apple Island for her metal after being stripped of everything movable.

The picturesque blaze was seen by thousands during the afternoon and the fire did not burn out until early today.

ARMY AND NAVY POLICIES OF G.O.P. TOLD

James J. Davis Says Present Administration Is for Peace With Security

The cost of our Army and Navy is over $700,000,000 each year, and takes up the time of 200,000 men. This number of men cannot be considered large. But the amount of money necessary in time of peace is a real tax on the people. It was partly on account of this enormous burden that the Washington conference was called for the purpose of the limitation of armaments.

A limit was secured, especially on battleships, which was a great saving to our country as well as a method of helping to make peace more certain by stopping the competition in this line of naval construction.

Both our Army and Navy are engaged in many activities which contribute to our peace time advantage. The Navy has always been of great assistance to our foreign commerce. It has helped to chart the seas and find out the unknown. It was an American naval officer, Admiral Peary, who reached the North Pole. Whenever any calamity occurs in our own country or abroad, like the earthquake in Japan, our Navy is used as an instrument of relief.

WORK ON WATERWAYS.

Likewise the Army assists in the arts of peace. It was under its direction that the Panama Canal was built. It is through their trained engineers that the construction work is done on our rivers and harbors. Such work is an absolute necessary to the opening up of our inland streams for navigation and the preparations of our harbors for our ocean commerce.

Soldiers have been constantly employed along the Mississippi River and its tributaries, and they will be used for opening better water connections from the Great Lakes to the Gulf, and through the St. Lawrence River to the Atlantic. Such development would benefit our great Western States, and by bringing down the costs of transportation increase the prices of products on the farm. They would also be used on the Colorado development and the improvements anticipated along the Pacific Coast.

THREE ARMS OF NAVY.

Thus we see the practical value in addition to the purely military activities which we derive from our Army and Navy. They are both real instruments of peace-time service.

While the Republican Administration has expressed a desire for further limitation of armaments, it also has the policy of undertaking to keep our navy up to the number of battleships and general strength that is allowed under the limitation treaty. It is building additional submarines and cruisers and undertaking to develop and increase the air service. To the American Army belongs the credit of having first circumnavigated the globe with airplanes. That result raised new questions as to the relative value of the three arms of the Navy—the surface ship, the aircraft and the submarine.

President Coolidge at once called in Secretary Wilbur and directed him to have the experts of his department make a careful survey of this problem for such action as their studies might show to be desirable. Since then a dirigible has crossed the ocean from Germany, and another has made a great voyage along three sides of our National boundary.

LIMITATIONS FAVORED.

While our present expenditures in all parts of the air service amount to some $70,000,000 each year, because this branch of the service is still somewhat in an experimental state, a considerable amount of equipment soon becomes obsolete. It is evident that it is in this field that we may expect the largest development. It has already accomplished the incredible. A Government plane started from the Atlantic in the morning and reached the Pacific the same day.

The armored battleship, the submarine and the airplane were of American origin. We want all these instruments used to minister to the safety, peace and confidence of the American people. We want our military forces always to be the servants, over the masters. We favor agreements for limitations that we may escape both the menace of militarism and the menace of foreign aggression. We believe it is in this direction that we can best promote the peace and welfare of our own citizens and arrive at just understandings with other nations.

Don't Worry Over Election; World Ends Feb. 6

Rockland, Me., Oct. 31. — "What difference does it make how the election comes out? There will be no need of a President next year," declared C. F. Woertz of Ohio, Seventh Day Adventist.

Mr. Woertz was accompanied by J. J. Hardman of South Dakota, who joined him in stoutly maintaining that the world is to come to an end on February 6, 1925.

The evangelists expressed the belief that all life on the planet will be destroyed and that true Christians will be transported to Heaven.

PRESIDENT MARKS BALLOT WITH ORDINARY PENCIL

Washington, Oct. 31.—President Coolidge voted today at the White House using an ordinary pencil, to mark the ballot which he later mailed to Northampton, Mass., his home voting place.

While the President voted in the presence of several newspapermen and a battery of photographers, he carefully held his hand in front of the ballot so that no one could see him write, while Mrs. Coolidge stood by, smiling, with her back turned.

The ceremony was conducted on the lawn in the rear of the White House.

BRITISH SCHOONER RUM RUNNER, IT IS CHARGED

A bill was entered in the office of the clerk of the United States District Court against the British schooner Marjorie E. Backman, charging that the vessel is a rum runner and under the control of persons on shore in the United States.

It was filed by Assistant United States Attorney Laurance Curtis, Jr., says the vessel arrived at a point 21.2 miles off Eastern Point, Gloucester, October 12, and thereafter furnished cargoes of liquor to small boats as a part of a scheme for smuggling liquor into the United States, and that she is liable to forfeiture to the United States.

SLAVERY PLOT CHARGED BY WOMAN

2 Men Arrested; 2 Taunton Girls Say They Were Lured From Home

The jealous fury of a middle-aged woman cast aside by her sweetheart for a young girl has led to the uncovering of what Federal authorities believe is a gigantic New England white slave organization.

New England mill girls, dazzled by tales of the luxury and wealth of life on the primrose path, were the victims selected by the alleged white slavers, for their traffic.

HELD IN SYRACUSE.

One man is under arrest in New Bedford, charged with luring girls from the mills at Taunton, while another Massachusetts man is held in Syracuse, charged with having charge of placing the girls in resorts.

Constance Garcia and Mabel Henry, Taunton girls, who disappeared a month ago, are being held by the Syracuse police as victims of the alleged white slavers.

August Bernard, Jr., formerly a watchman at the Taunton State Hospital, is under arrest in New Bedford, charged with violation of the Mann white slave act. Bernard is accused by the Federal authorities of having procured the girls for transportation out of the State, while Cornelius Bolan of Fall River, Mass., also a former employee at the Taunton State Hospital, is under arrest in Syracuse. Bolan is accused of operating the receiving end of the white slave machinery, placing the girls sent from New England in resorts.

Mrs. Josephine Graves, married and the mother of three children, is the woman whose jealousy led to the uncovering of the alleged white slave plot.

SUICIDE THREAT.

Mrs. Graves, attractive and of middle age, lived in Florida, where she became acquainted with Bolan. Several months ago, according to the police, Mrs. Graves and Bolan went from Florida to Syracuse.

A few weeks later, the mill girls secured by Bernard in Taunton arrived. They were given quarters in the place maintained by Bolan and Mrs. Graves.

Suddenly, it is said, the Fall River man fell in love with the Henry girl. For a time he concealed his relations with the Henry girl from Mrs. Graves. When she unexpectedly discovered the couple in the apartment, the woman became so infuriated she announced that she was going to call the police.

Before Bolan or the girl had a chance to leave, the police arrived. The details for the white slave scheme was hatched out, the detectives say, while the men were employed in the Taunton State Hospital.

Bolan, police say, has a long criminal record in Massachusetts, having been arrested on larceny and other charges.

ZINOVIEV TOO RED FOR GERMANY'S COMMUNISTS

Berlin, Oct. 31 (Wireless to Universal Service.)—Zinoviev and his executive committee of the Third, or Bolshevist, Internationale, have become too radical even for the German communists. The proclamation to the German communists signed by Zinoviev and the executive committee, urging them to fight against the German Republic for a German revolution at the coming election, was subjected to a drastic "editing" before it was published by the Rote Fahne, the "Red" organ here. Mr. George W. Loft Tells About the Molasses Mixture in "The Big Three"

If you are a New Englander, we do not have to tell you what our Molasses Mixture is. Have you ever been in a country grocery store, when the last of the Molasses had been sold and all that remained in the barrel was the honey like substance known as "Molasses Sugar"? What a rare treat it was to be able to buy it and make it up into Candy. This is the very kind of Molasses we use in the making of the sweets known as MOLASSES MIXTURE which we feature in the BIG THREE this week.

16 PROVINCES SUPPORT HIM, FENG DECLARES

Peking, Oct. 31 (I.N.S.)—Fighting has been in progress during the last 24 hours between the troops of Feng Yuh Siang and Wu Pei Fu at Tang Tsun, sixty miles south of Peking. Feng returned to Peking, declaring the defeat of Wu would be accomplished within a few days. He claimed that sixteen provinces had declared their loyalty to him and his new "citizens' army."

MAINE LAWYER NAMED IN RUM PLOT MISSING

Four Cases of "Evidence" Held by Ellsworth Sheriff Are Also Gone

Ellsworth, Me., Oct. 31.—A scandal which may cause official investigation is brewing in Hancock County as a result of the disappearance of Daniel E. Hurley, attorney and politician following his secret indictment in connection with a liquor conspiracy, and the disappearance of liquor entrusted to Sheriff Ward M. Westcott for safekeeping.

When Hurley's case was called before Justice Dunn in Supreme Court, he could not be located, and it was rumored he had gone to Boston.

When Sheriff Westcott called last week to arrest him, Hurley was in a local hospital. Three days later, when the sheriff called again, the lawyer had left.

Two other men were indicted with Hurley. One, Linwood H. Mosley, turned State's evidence, but Charles E. Martin stood trial and was acquitted.

During the trial of Martin it was discovered that four of the eleven cases of liquor said to have been turned over to the sheriff by Mosley had disappeared.

AMERICAN ZEPPELIN PLANT FOR CHICAGO

Chicago, Oct. 31. (I.N.S.)—The removal of the Goodyear Rubber Company headquarters from Akron, O., to Chicago and establishment here of an American Zeppelin works was announced today when it became known that the visit to Chicago of Hugo Eckener and three chief officers of the ZR-3 was primarily for the purpose of investigating facilities. The plan was revealed by P. O. Lehmann, a brother of Captain Ernest A. Lehmann, chief pilot of the ZR-3 who also said Capt. Lehmann had accepted the position of vice president of the American Zeppelin works.

WILL CALL OFF WAR IF MANCHURIAN RETIRES

Shanghai, Oct. 31 (I.N.S.)—General Wu Pei Fu, ousted by General Feng Yuh Siang, his former attorney, has offered to cease fighting if General Feng will persuade Chang Tso-Lin, Manchurian war-lord, to retire beyond the great wall and if all parties agree to return to status quo before Feng's coup.

Wu has been reported ready to march his reorganized army against Peking, where Feng is in control.

LA FOLLETTE DENOUNCES GILLETT

The defeat of Speaker Frederick H. Gillett of Springfield, Republican, opponent of Senator David I. Walsh, was demanded by Senator Robert M. La Follette at a rally at Mechanics Hall.

"Fighting Bob" denounced Gillett as "a man who is always ready to do the bidding of Wall Street, one who has never flinched when called upon to do the bidding of American gold or oil."

Cheered to the echo by more than 9,000 men and women, 3,000 of whom had paid for seats, La Follette declared that Walsh was one of the first to protest against the war profiteering and the oil steal.

VOTE FOR CHILDREN.

"If you are looking for the interests of Massachusetts and of the United States," he said, "you will return David I. Walsh to the Senate."

Departing from his set speech, he strongly urged the adoption of the child labor amendment on broad humanitarian grounds. He charged the textile interest with being behind the movement to defeat the amendment, their intention being to move to the South and gain the benefit of cheap labor.

"If you want to keep your industries here," he shouted, "vote 'yes' on the amendment."

INVENTION AND MONOPOLY.

Touching on the cost of living, a downward trend instead of an advance should have taken place in the last thirty years, he declared. He described the era as the most wonderful in invention that the world has ever known.

"But those who have used these inventions to aid in creation of great monopolies have taken all the profits for themselves," he charged. "They have given nothing to the people."

The Independent Progressive candidate for the Presidency, the only one of the three candidates to speak in Boston, swept into President Coolidge's home state from Albany in good time for his speaking engagement.

GIVEN OVATION.

Wishing to conserve his strength he declined to be interviewed but willingly posed for pictures. Tonight he speaks in Pittsburgh and the following night in Cleveland, where the campaign is expected to be brought to a close.

La Follette's appearance on the well decorated stage, which included portraits of Washington and Lincoln, was the signal for an ovation.

Overflow crowds gathered on West Newton street where amplifiers had been placed for just such a contingency.

George Fred Williams, former minister to Greece, presided and opened the rally with a vitriolic speech in which he flayed both of the old parties without stint or measure.

WARNS OF IMPERIALISM.

Following his introduction, La Follette was obliged to remind his hearers that his words were being broadcast by WBZ and that the time was limited.

He charged that the American Government, under successive administration subservient to the banking interests, had descended to imperialism in its foreign relation policy.

Those responsible for the conquest of Haiti, San Domingo, Nicaragua, Honduras, Panama and Costa Rico, he indicted as traitors to the principles of government for which the forefathers died. He warned that the path of imperialism may embroil us in war in the Far East as well as with Europe.

CITES SPIRIT OF '76.

"The army and navy have already been converted into a huge collection agency for the house of J. P. Morgan & Company, the National City Bank, the Standard Oil Company, and other banking houses of Wall and State streets," he informed his audience.

LABOR CABINET TO QUIT IN FEW DAYS

London Newspapers Warn the Conservatives the MacDonald Party Is Still Live Corpse

London, Oct. 31. (A.P.)—The Labor-ite Cabinet headed by Premier MacDonald, after a two-hour session today, is understood to have decided to remain in office a few days and then resign before the assembling of the new Parliament.

It is expected that the Cabinet will resign next week rather than meet the new Parliament and be turned out upon the King's address.

LABOR STILL STRONG.

All the London afternoon papers except the Liberal Star which deplores the Conservative victory because of its effect on the Liberal party, today acclaim the defeat of the MacDonald government but warn the Conservatives that Labor is still a very live corpse.

The Evening Standard calls attention to the fact that Labor polled a larger vote than ever before in its history.

The Star attributes Mr. MacDonald's defeat to blunders in policy and "abusive attacks on the Liberals, whose votes he had to ask." The Star thinks unjustified the predictions of a virtual disappearance of the Liberal party, which it finds he natural sequence to "our hysteria."

SERIOUS TASK.

"If," the Star continues, "Conservatism is to ratify the varied passions it has aroused, it will need a magician and Mr. Baldwin is no conjurer."

One outcome of the election was to make Northern Ireland's representations in Commons wholly Conservative, the polling in Fermanagh and Tyrone having resulted in the return of two Conservatives by huge majorities.

These seats were held in the last Parliament by a Nationalist and a Sinn Feiner.

LOONEY GAS NOT NEW PERIL, COMPANY SAYS

Elizabeth, N. J., Oct. 31. (I.N.S.)—Tetra-ethyl lead gas poisoning which has claimed five lives in a week is no new menace to workers in industrial chemical plants, officials of the Standard Oil Company stated today. Every warning was given and every precaution was taken for the forty-five workers in the company's Bayway plant, where the poison took its toll, the company announced.

WILL AID RUMMAGE SALE

An attractive and skilful "saleslady" at the big rummage sale to be held next Thursday at Horticultural Hall will be Mrs. Theodore Frothingham, Jr., pictured above. The rummage sale is for the benefit of the Free Hospital for Women.

By BETTY ALDEN

FRIDAYS seem to be at a premium among the rather large group of matrons having debutante daughters this season.

It's a pity the week hasn't more Fridays, what with nearly everyone preferring to stage their daughter's presentation on that particular day.

If the debut takes the form of a dance, there is an added impetus to obtain the coveted evening.

The reason for that, of course, is obvious. The ever-present "stag" line—without which no debutante ball would be complete—is composed mostly of Harvard undergraduates. Saturday being an easy day at the institution across the Charles, the "stags" can attend Friday night functions where they might have to pass up affairs taking place on other evenings. Saturday, of course, is quite impossible, since midnight is rather the hour for arrival, than departure, at the debutante dance.

TODAY will mark the debut of three fair young buds.

Mrs. Stephen B. Davol is giving a tea at the Vendome this afternoon for her daughter, Miss Florence Davol. In the evening comes the small dance at the Concord Country Club in honor of Miss Isabel Shaw, daughter of the T. Mott Shaws, and Miss Alice Lowell, whose parents are the Frederick Lowells. The fact that this latter affair takes place out-of-town in no wise detracts from its importance, both Miss Shaw and Miss Lowell being among the most prominent debbies of the season.

THINGS HAVEN'T been the same in the household of the Francis Lowell Coolidges since their pet cat betook himself away, whiskers and all.

The young wanderer is striped—there being no stigma attached to whatsoever—and the white tip to his tail is a further mark of identification. In addition his collar is marked "296 Marlboro Street," so that there's really no question as to his identity.

Let it be said that an abundance of tempting viands awaits the return of the prodigal.

Society Notes

JORREY MORSE of No. 12 Fairfield Street, has closed his Summer place at Pride's Crossing.

Mrs. Guy Murchie of Boston has been joined in New York at the Ambassador by Mrs. David Rice of Marion, Mass.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert B. Bradley (Phillis Rich), who were married in Boston on Saturday, are spending part of their honeymoon at Hot Springs, Va.

Brigadier General and Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt gave the other evening their first entertainment in more than a year at their Fifth Avenue residence. The affair was a dinner in honor of the Duke and Duchess of Alba, who came here about two months ago to attend the international polo games at Meadow Brook as personal representatives of King Alfonso of Spain.

Miss Margaret L. Corliss plans to remain at "Attlee House," her North Shore home at Magnolia, virtually all Winter.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Bacon have closed "Overlook," their Summer home in Nahant, and returned to town.

Professor Charles Loring Jackson is making a long season of it at his Pride's Crossing place before coming to town for the Winter.

DAVIS SEEKING VOTES FROM LA FOLLETTE

Tells the Senator's Following That Their Fight Is Hopeless

New York, Oct. 31 (I.N.S.)—In the same breath with which John W. Davis announced today that Republicans were coming over to the Democratic fold in flocks, the Democratic presidential nominee appealed to those persons who intend to vote for Senator La Follette to get behind the Davis-Bryan ticket.

"I call to their attention" he said of the progressives in the fourth of a series of daily pre-election statements "the hopelessness of their fight. I remind them that they are subtracting from the great force opposed to the Coolidge administration."

To those La Follette supporters who prefer revolution to remedy, Davis said he had nothing to say. "The great majority, however," the nominee added, "who are undoubtedly sincere were led to believe that the surest way to defeat Coolidge was to vote for La Follette.

"The nation is threatened today with a greater danger from Radicalism than by Radicalism. Radicalism will, indeed, grow in proportion to the blind greed for money and the improper use of the power of money."

To Produce More Sugar

Brussels, Oct. 31.—Belgian sugar manufacturers have decided to increase this year's output to 300,000 tons, against 260,000 last year, and a drop in price is forecast.

WOMAN DENIES PLOT AGAINST EDSEL FORD

$1,050,000 Extortion Case Expected to Reach Jury Today

Detroit, Oct. 31.—Mrs. Anna Sliadik denied on the witness stand that she had any part in the alleged attempt to extort $1,050,000 from Edsel Ford with which she is charged. The case was expected to go to the jury today.

Edsel B. Ford, president of the Ford Motor Company, was a witness at the trial. He testified to receiving letters last Summer which demanded $1,050,000 from him on the threat of injury to his children. Vaclav Sliadik, now serving a one to two-year prison sentence, in connection with the case, was brought from Jackson penitentiary to testify at the trial. Sliadik, in his trial, said he was kidnaped and forced to write the extortion letters. He implicated Mrs. Sliadik.

Sliadik on Mrs. Sliadik was virtually a repetition of his previous statements. Edsel Ford's secretary first received the extortion letters which demanded that the money be placed in a vacant lot. The letters were in such poor English as to be scarcely intelligible.

STRIKE ARRESTS LIKELY TODAY AT WALTHAM

Police Take Names of Leaders in Disturbances at Company Gates

The disturbances at the gates of the Waltham Watch and Clock Company plant, which were resumed when it was learned that officials of the company had refused to confer with strike leaders, are expected to result in arrests of some of the offenders today.

Police announced that complaints would be made against some of the strikers and they would be hailed into court on charges of disturbance.

CALL FOR HELP.

The small detail of police who were on guard when several hundred of the strikers gathered were helpless to put a stop to the shouting, jeering and hooting on the part of the strikers.

The demonstration was not discontinued until Captain Richard Curtin, in charge of the detail, had issued a hurry call for reinforcements. When the latter arrived the crowd was soon quieted.

Police took the names of several of the leaders in the disturbance and announced that summonses for in the political situation. One well-informed Californian wires, "California will surely go for Coolidge, in spite of all the La Follette talk."

Another, well acquainted with the State, predicts victory for La Follette.

WHAT HENRY FORD says about throwing the election into Congress will interest California especially. The election thrown into Congress would probably result in a deadlock in the House and the election of Governor Bryan as Vice-President, which would make him President on March 4.

GOVERNOR BRYAN, as everybody acquainted with him knows, is an earnest, honest, intelligent American, desiring only to serve his country and act justly.

But if he shares the opinions of his distinguished brother, who went all the way to California to intercede with the Legislature on behalf of the Japanese, Governor Bryan would oppose the laws against Asiatic immigration. That will make California thoughtful. They mean to keep California white.

IN ENGLAND the Tories are overwhelmingly victorious. The Labor party, which put through the Dawes plan, smoothed out the bitter ill-feeling between France and England, and re-established commercial relations between England and Russia, has nothing to be ashamed of in its brief period of government.

It will be the second party in the House of Commons, with the Liberals a pitiful minority, smaller than the Home Rule party in the days of Parnell.

IN THIS COUNTRY many will vote on the side of "conservatism," against a change and against the possibility of business stagnation and uncertainty caused by an election thrown into Congress.

FORTUNATELY, there is nothing in next Tuesday's election to worry any American. All six of the leading Presidential and Vice-Presidential candidates are good Americans, anxious to do their duty.

The attacks of corporations, denouncing La Follette as a violent, dangerous revolutionist, are as false and preposterous as the attacks of the Communists and Anarchists that call La Follette a reactionary and the "tool of capitalists."

THE ELECTION of La Follette, as it happens, is impossible. All well-informed men, including Senator La Follette, know it.

Many agree with Henry Ford that, at this particular time, it would be unwise to risk the uncertainty of an election in Congress, which is absolutely the only alternative to the election of Coolidge. Neither Davis nor La Follette can by any possibility get a majority in the electoral college.

THE BETTING yesterday was 8 to 1 on Coolidge, but, in spite of the odds, which politicians say "always mean something," this is the most mixed up and uncertain election that the country has seen in many a day.

IN ANY CASE no man will deny that Henry Ford's interests are exactly the same as those of the average American. He isn't interested in the men of millions, in corporations or special privilege. He is interested in continuing prosperity and enabling the little man to buy a little automobile at a little price, and take his family for a ride.

Such a man is sure to tell you at least what he really believes to be for the people's interest.

Police appearance in court would be issued.

President Ernest Faulkner of the strikers, in announcing the stand of company officials, urged all strikers who wished to return to do so.

"We don't want any of you in our ranks who feel that they ought to go back to remain out on our account. Only those who are honestly indignant, as is the strike committee, against the attitude of the company should stick it out to the end. Those of us who insist on a square deal are ready to carry the fight through the Winter."

MRS. STOKES' SLEUTH ASKS $7,500 FROM UNTERMEYER

Chicago, Oct. 31.—Suit has been brought against Samuel Untermyer, New York attorney, for $7,500 by W. C. Dannenberg, Chicago private detective, who is seeking to recover money he declares due him for detective services rendered in connection with the W. E. D. Stokes divorce hearing in New York. Dannenberg asserts he made investigations and obtained information here in behalf of Mrs. Helen Elwood Stokes.

DARING STORE LOOTERS ARE CAPTURED

Abandon Auto After Mattapan Chase; Traced to Homes

With unsurpassed hardihood, two burglars early today looted the tailor shop of Jacob Gross at No. 365A Washington street, Mattapan, directly in front of which stands a police signal box.

The thieves were busy piling bolts of cloth into an automobile parked beside the police signal box when Patrolman Finnegan appeared to make his hourly duty call at the box.

Shots were fired at the fugitives when they fled, abandoning their car and the loot, and later two young men were arrested at their homes in Roxbury and the South End and are being held on suspicion.

The burglary was the second in which Mattapan tailor shops were entered within forty-eight hours, and was the third time the Gross place has been entered in two years.

The automobile in which the cloth was being loaded, was a "drive your own" car rented from a Cambridge garage.

After the fugitives disappeared down Bradley street, with Policeman Finnegan shooting at them, police checked up on the car. They finally traced two youths to the Phalanx Club in Roxbury and later arrested them at their homes.

The names of the suspects are being withheld until the police complete their investigation.

TELLS A. F. L. SUPPORT FOR LA FOLLETTE

Secretary Morrison, at Fund Probe, Says $23,000 Has Been Raised

Chicago, Oct. 31.—Republican campaign contributions to date have totalled about $3,700,000, William Y. Hodges, national treasurer, testified today before the Chicago section of the Senate Campaign Fund Committee.

Washington, Oct. 31.—The activities of the American Federation of Labor on behalf of Senator La Follette and the operations of the Grundy committee in its collection of Republican funds in Pennsylvania, were inquired into today by the Senate campaign Fund Committee.

Frank Morrison, secretary of the Federation of Labor, testified that the organization had collected $23,000 and spent $20,000 in promoting its campaign for La Follette.

Chairman Caraway drew Morrison into a discussion of the Central Trades and Labor Council of Greater New York, which last night reversed a previous endorsement of La Follette and came out for John W. Davis.

QUESTIONS MORRISON.

"They had a right to do that, didn't they?" asked the chairman.

"Would a committee of the House have a right to rescind a decision of the House?" countered Morrison. "I have no official information, but I have read that the executive board of the central organization took the action."

"You do not intend to do anything about it?" asked Germany.

"There is no coercion on the part of anybody by the A. F. of L.," replied the witness.

W. L. Bouland, counsel for the Republican National committee, asked if these items didn't expect a "financial return" to organize labor through the construction the Independent candidates would place on the Clayton Act if elected.

"The question of the action of the Supreme Court is the basis for our wishes to have the judges elected by the people," Morrison replied.

Joseph P. Grundy, chairman of the ways and means committee of the Pennsylvania State Republican Committee, testified that up until October 29 he had collected $521,348.89.

"You are still collecting funds?" asked Frank P. Walsh, La Follette's counsel.

"Oh, yes, we are doing our darndest," Grundy replied.

"Are you acquainted with the fact that $100,000 has been sent into the State of Nebraska?"

"No, sir, I am not."

Grundy said $89,000 had been spent in Pennsylvania.

Walsh called attention to the total which W. L. Mellon had collected in the Pittsburgh district and asked the witness if that made the grand total of Republican collections in Pennsylvania $791,000.

"If your arithmetic is correct, yes," said Grundy.

Frank Morrison, Secretary of the American Federation of Labor, testified that in supporting La Follette the Federation only asked for voluntary contributions.

"There is nothing compulsory," he said. "The contributions received up to October 31 are $23,736.83."

Democratic Fund $522,368 on Oct. 25

Washington, Oct. 31.—The Democratic National Committee, in a supplemental report to the clerk of the House of Representatives shows total receipts of $522,368 to October 25 inclusive, with expenditures to that date of $725,050.

IDENTIFY MAN WHO DIED IN PARADE

Marketman Who Fell at Beacon and Charles Streets Was W. H. Loring

The whiteclad marcher who dropped dead at Charles and Beacon streets during the Republican torchlight parade was identified today as William H. Loring, fifty-eight years old, an employe of the M. R. Lawrence Company of Faneuil Hall.

Identification was made at the Northern Mortuary by Howard F. Rollins, a foreman of the Lawrence company. Loring's employers have no record of his address and his address and his only relatives of whom they have knowledge is a Mrs. Brown who lives on Poplar street, Danvers. Police officers sought to communicate with her following the identification of the body.

The other casualty in the parade was George Carpenter, sixty-two years old, a salesman, living at the Hotel Savoy. He collapsed at Dartmouth street and Commonwealth avenue. Carpenter was a drummer in a parading Masonic band.

Over 10,000 men and women were in the glittering spectacle, which was the most picturesque event of the Fall campaign.

For the first time in a torchlight parade women with flaming beacons marched along the streets of Boston.

FOUGHT 48-HOUR LAW.

"I wonder if you voters realize that the opposition to this amendment is the same as the opposition was to the 48-hour law here," said Mrs. Gordon Thompson to one [illegible] "It was the manufacturers from who opposed us in our fight for decent working hours. It is the same gang now fighting against this amendment for the protection of our children. They have been spreading misleading information and so throughout the state and you have been foolish enough to swallow it. It is about time that you workers awoke to the fact that you are being bunked.

"Of course we have child labor laws here that are good enough. They are the finest in the country.

"But we must think of the children of other States as well as our own. In those States where they will not pass good child labor laws we must stand up and see that the Federal government is given the power to make them protect the children.

AGED BEFORE TIME.

"We must give the children of our country a chance or where will they be when they grow up? We must see to the raising of the children of the mills [illegible] dangerous trades in those States where they are now working as many as sixty hours a week. We must vote in favor of the amendment.

"We must pass this amendment for the protection already [illegible] nearly half [illegible] who are now working [illegible] are away in factories in States [illegible] the legislatures will not pass laws to protect children."

BOSTON HOTELS MADE MONEY FOR OWNERS

Whipple Corporation, Judging From Tax Return, Had Profitable 1923 Season

Delving into the income tax returns, under Collector Malcolm E. Nichols' "one at a time and slowly" system, revealed today that the hotel business is a comfortable one to own.

The Hotel Whipple Corporation operates the Parker House, Young's Hotel and the Touraine.

On its holdings and the income they returned in 1923, the corporation was assessed $28,392, that amount representing an approximate income of $236,600. Yes, the hotel business is terrible.

The Whipple company is capitalized at $369,750 preferred stock with a par value of $25 and $275,000 in common stock, with a par value of $10.

'PERKING UP' BY MOTHERS

BY GRACE DESCHAMPS

The flapper is teaching her mother:

How to pluck her eyebrows.
Where to put the rouge.
How to use an orange stick.
And mother is "catching on!"

At least 50 per cent. of the women who part with anywhere from seventy-five cents to three dollars for a "face lift" have "Mrs." on their cards and have a fair-sized family.

That's what a round of the city's beauty shops revealed today.

FLAPPER SHOWS MA.

And the flapper taught 'em how! The bobbed-haired flapper with polished nails and imitation-jade earrings!

"Absolutely," says the woman barber who runs the most elaborate beauty and barber shops in the city—Marguerite S. Stone.

"The young girl with the bobbed hair has actually put the rank and file of women on their toes to keep from being back numbers.

"Gray-haired women—mothers of families and women who have fought their way to success in business and the professions, have learned from the flapper that pink nails and a manicured hand is a woman's best native self-reservation.

"They're dropping in loaded with bundles after a bargain hunt—or tired with the routine of business—and emerge from the private curtained and rose lamps looking the proverbial morning glory.

"They're women then! All the charm of the charming sex is in their glowing cheeks and shadowed eyes. They're not tired, dreadful-mad scarred women not worn-out secretaries and schoolteachers—they're women! Attractive women! and they know it.

"Ain't they learned it from watching the slicked-haired flapper with her wordly assurance that she bought in a beauty shop for less than a dollar?"

TWO HOURS TO DRESS.

All this information about mother comes about when a beauty specialist in New York announces that Gotham's women average two hours a day on their personal appearance.

"Why not," says Mrs. Charles Oelrichs, Manhattan society matron. "Besides that, I spend an hour three or four times a week at my favorite beauty shop. This includes no unusual treatment—just the massage, manicure and hair culture that all women need.

"In fact, all the time I can spare from my other activities goes into looking fit."

Julia Sanderson, now playing in Boston, and one of the most beautiful women on the stage, puts in a little over-word for mother's weekly "setting" in perfumed luxury.

"The dear old soul! I love young and why not? What better heart, she's entitled to every day!

"Beauty is something you breathe . . . to live. Men want it . . . and in their women—and women want it, too.

"If the flapper has taught her mother how to perk up more power to both of them.

"When I get old I'm sure I won't sit in a corner . . . to wave my hair. I . . . once a week . . .

FLOCK OF FINE FOOTBALL FROLICS ON FIRE FOR THE FANS

INDIANS BATTLE EAGLES

By NICK FLATELY

SEVERAL large football games are clustered on the morrow's schedule, with the favorites fairly sure of glory, unless the machinery here and there is gummed up with an entirely unexpected monkey wrench. The contests of local interest and importance figure, as we do that, as follows:

Yale to beat the Army.
Dartmouth to beat Brown.
Boston College to beat Haskell.
Harvard to beat B. U.
Tufts to beat Wesleyan.

Guessing one game correctly in a season full of tipovers is a lucky stab, while five merely make things a little more complicated

QUITE an assembly of fans will invade Braves Field to watch John Levi and the other noble aborigines try things out with the Eagles. John and the rest of his picturesque warriors can give anybody a real battle, according to coaches and officials

The Cavanaugh team, slow to develop, after opening up like a world beater, should be in its real form for this pastime

The dizzy, crowd stuff of the bronze invaders is very likely to stumble up against some of the most rugged obstacles the gridiron can produce.

A punting duel between Chuck Darling, best in the East, and Chief Levi, proclaimed a wonder, should make a perfect P. M. for any fan.

HARVARD will try out a lot of backfield candidates against the B. U. Terriers, who have enough fight and courage to make any club hate give his best

The regular ball carriers will be rested up, but the varsity linesmen will be chased in so that the coaches may find out if the week's lessons in interfering and things have been properly assimilated

THE Brown squad is practicing in Hanover today and is a confident band of athletes, as they be mentioned. The Providence visitors were harshly peeved when the married victory away from them and they will be taking it out on the Big Green.

That, though, is not of much need to stern and relentless [illegible] season has been both [illegible] but, and both [illegible] able for the [illegible] athletes are in good shape to play. There hasn't been any hard bumping at Dartmouth all week and the rest has done the bruised lads a lot of good

NATIONAL interest will center in the Columbia game at Cornell The boys who were being steered to the heights by the late Percy Haughton will be facing a mighty tough test. The game will be entirely a state of mind with them

If they can forget the shock of the loss of their gridiron pal to uphold his memory, they will smear Gil Dobie's eleven

But Haughton was such a personal coach such an integral part of the team, that playing football without him will be a great mental strain on the youngsters who were jumping to carry out his order only a few days back

HARVARD will get some real experience against Lowell Pass [illegible] Dr. Dexter Whelan has developed his fight team with the [illegible] as the principal method of offense. The doctor, without abundance of material, always [illegible] and generally [illegible] squads a year now [illegible]

[illegible] last season [illegible] Harvard [illegible] Brown's [illegible] and enemy, [illegible] the goals in the last few years have tried to make the Bear game a secondary affair. Noone who has watched the teams play never will believe they can do that

WILL THESE HASKELL HUSKIES PUT INDIAN SIGN ON B. C.?

Boston will have a chance to see a real Indian eleven in action at Braves Field tomorrow, when the Haskell team battles Boston College. Last Saturday the Dartmouth "Indians" whipped Harvard at the Stadium. Will history repeat itself?

John Levi, hailed as a second Jim Thorpe, is the real star of the invading Redskins. The backfield (left to right), lines up: Scott, q.b.; Smith, r.h.b.; John Levi, f.b.; George Levi, l.h.b. The line: Kipp, r.e.; Roebeck, r.t.; Norton, r.g.; Hawley, c.; Killbuck, l.g.; Stidham, l.t.; Capt. Carpenter, l.e.

MEDFORD-EVERETT GRID STARS ON EDGE FOR BIG BATTLE

SCHOOLS IN TITLE CONTEST

By FRED C. LANE.

The turning point in the Suburban League race will be decided tomorrow when Everett and Medford meet at Fulton Field, Medford. Malden is considered the dispositor of the Medford team and this contest will just about decide the next champion of the Suburban circuit.

At the present time Everett is leading the parade with Medford close up. Coach Mansfield has prepared for this contest as he would for the Malden invasion and is keen about adding the Suburban title to the school trophy chest for the second successive year.

Coach Charlie Brickley, on the other hand, has worked fire and tongs to whip his lads into shape for this important contest. In fact Everett feels it has reached the top of its form and will have no ash if defeated.

That word defeat is far from the minds of the Everett fans. They are out to win the title this year, something that was denied them because of bad breaks during the 1923 campaign. The pennant fever has been buzzing in their quarters since their victory over Rindge.

They have played brilliant football since that sweet victory and fear not the powerful rushes of the Medford backs. Bud Edgerly, who returned to the Medford lineup after three weeks' absence, was not himself in last Saturday's contest. He was a trifle off form and found it hard to get going.

Coach Mansfield has put in considerable time with this star and "Fish" Ellis, another elusive Medford back, and on the performances of these two lads he hopes to annex a victory.

While this contest is taking place Brookline and Rindge will meet a Russell Field, Cambridge. Brookline is feared by every scholastic eleven in the league. They have played in and out football, but have proved themselves tartars even when having an off day.

Coach Kelliher does not have put given up the idea that the pennant in the Suburban League race is lost. They have three league games to play after this season and feel that a victory today and three to come will just about bring them to the top. Because of the various standings leading teams this season, the race is more than interesting.

Every contest played to date has been hard fought. No quarters are given and none are asked. Two of the games were exceedingly rough but there was no ill feeling between the players. Rindge cannot afford to lose tomorrow. Should such happen they are hopelessly out of the running.

In all probability Brookline will find them in their best form. The Brookline team has only received from the stirring contest played at Medford and cannot stand another struggle of this kind from Rindge.

Moe came close to ending the New York season with a darb. He put his jack on Bright Steel and the latter's stable mate, Pique, led to the last furlong and then tired, finishing third with 15, 6 and 3 chalked against him. Not so very bad. Moe moves on to Laurel today where he has a baby that Gene Finnegan gave him the wire on. B. R. to date, $24,385.21.

EXETER PLAYS WORCESTER ACADEMY

Exeter, N. H., Oct. 31—The annual game with Worcester Academy, which will be played on Phillips Field, Exeter, tomorrow will wind up a hard week for coaches and players alike. Exeter has won three out of the last four games played with the Red and Black and expects another victory this year although Coach Blake looks for a hard game.

Scores for the past four years between the two preparatory schools after the game here Saturday: Worcester 6, 1921 Exeter 12; Worcester 6, 1922 Worcester, 19; Exeter 14, Worcester 0, 1923 Exeter 14, Worcester 7. Exeter's backfield is coming fast, Ellis at quarterback, Talbot and Thompson halfbacks and Batchelder fullback look like the best combination Coach Collett has selected in the place of Pike who is out with injuries and Thompson another Natick boy playing in the place of Brenizer.

Coach Blake however has two good sets of backs and looks for the forwards to be better than for several years.

It will be the leading preparatory school event of this section and many Worcester students and alumni are expected to make the trip to Exeter to root for the Red and Black.

Army Wins Over Syracuse

West Point, N. Y., Oct. 31. Army defeated the strong Syracuse team at soccer by a score of 5 to 1. The cadets, with Browning and Bay starring, led at half time, 2 to 1. Horley scoring the collegians' only goal after five minutes' play.

NORA LEE

A Story of Flaming Youth

Heart and Soul of 1924 Flapper Laid Bare in Best Story by Author of "Chickie"

START THE STORY HERE TODAY

Margaret Meadows married Will Lee at seventeen. His dissolute habits soon made her miserable. The night he raised his hand to his two-year old child in a drunken rage she slipped from his home with her baby. Margaret supported her daughter by teaching school in several villages, finally settling in Faraday, where she met Andrew and they fell in love. But he was tied to an invalid wife and Margaret refused to let him leave her. Nora at 17 fell in love with Dane Herrick. Andrew's wife recovers and attacks him with a pistol. He says goodbye to Nora Lee and gives her a packet of money. Andrew is killed in an auto accident.

NOW CONTINUE THE STORY

By ELENORE MEHERIN

AS they passed to the curb where the machine waited, an automobile came tearing headlong. It stopped at the hospital—a flutter of long veils—a purple cape brushed Nora Lee's sleeve. The white face and garish hair of Andrew's wife shone under the shadow of an immense hat.

Poor, unprotesting dead that may be claimed because the spirit has gone winging on its way—

But it made Nora Lee cry—oh, that Margaret should see that—that she must leave the dear beloved—give him that was so honored in his life to this unkindly death—have those unpitying hands defile the empty sepulchre—

Margaret shielded her face with her hands. She met as one from whom all life is gone.

Once she said to Nora Lee: "What is the time?"

"Nearly eleven."

"Eleven—oh, this noon he was alive." The moment of final parting came like a chord of distant harmony to Margaret's mind—the look of trust, undying faith in Andrew's gentle eyes; the smile of boyish sweetness: "I loved you—too much for that—"

She went into the house—wandered about the room—touching the things that he had loved—opening a book—

There was in its pages a snapshot Nora Lee had taken. It was of Andrew, gallant and laughing—

Margaret took it up to the light. She turned it this way and that. She said to Nora Lee: "I cannot see the facesmell me, has it faded?"

"Oh mother—you must see it—of course, you do—"

Margaret's eyes glanced at her strangely. "No, I cannot see his face. Then it must be, he is dead—"

She said that and dropped in Nora Lee's bewildered arms.

Andrew Dead, Margaret Ill

In the ghostly stillness Nora Lee watched her mother's face, blanched and quiet as a marble mask. She touched her lips to the soft hair and to the shadowed eyes. "Mother, do you see me sitting here? Nod—please, mother dear, if you are hearing me—"

She waited in panic. Margaret's hands opened and closed; the blue tire deepened at her mouth. But she didn't speak. Two days she lay thus—

Sobs tremulous and burning choked in Nora Lee's heart. Margaret was going to—she would be left alone; here in this house, utterly alone—

She held to Margaret's hand, assuring herself in a childish way. Yet she had a feeling that her mother and Andrew had stolen away. Andrew was far out there calling Margaret was hearing the distant voice. That's why she lay so quiet . . . she was gathering her strength to go. This sublime and tragic love of theirs had flouted the laws of earth. Now it was flouting the laws of death.

And Nora Lee, sitting at her mother's bed, remembered Andrew's eyes when she said to him: "She is looking from the window. I think her heart is breaking." How slowly he turned—then the long smile as their glances met—a great beam of light flashing from soul to soul—

Image Appears

This image of Andrew was so vivid she sat upright, glancing with a fearful swiftness to the door—half awaiting his light, springy step; half expecting to meet his brown, eager eyes with that old gallant kindness shining in their depths.

But Andrew was dead. She had gone in and kissed his cold, smiling face. She had touched the gray hair at his temples, whispering: "You dear, dear Andrew—" and waved her hand as she left the room as though Andrew would take a comfort from that—

She began to cry. It was then, just as the morning light was breaking that Margaret opened her eyes, saying in a startled hush: "Nora Lee! Why are you here?"

"Oh, mother—"

Margaret stared incredulous; horror was born slowly and with frightful pauses in those flickered eyes. Her lips strained. She turned with a pathetic, despairing gesture and hid her face against the pillow.

She lay so long unstirring that Nora Lee leaned over her, touching in a soft frenzy, her hands, her lips: "Speak to me, mother! Two days—you haven't moved—"

Two days? Was it two days ago? Open the window, Nora Lee—I find it hard to breathe—"

The window is open. Oh mother, you won't lie so quiet, please—I don't know what to do—"

Long Days of Trial

Margaret smiled. Her hand strayed along the cover: "Foolish child—I'm only resting—only—resting—"

She was lifeless again. Through the days that followed, Nora Lee had to meet again and again that look of dawning horror; that terrible agony of loss that with each awakening broke fresh and new on Margaret's heart.

She said: "Andrew is dead? You are sure? You said that you went back and kissed his face. Ah—I remember—it was cold—"

But sometimes Margaret looked to the window, a light of recognition in her eyes, then a smile, deep-toned as an organ note curved her full perfect lips.

Nora Lee said: "What are you seeing, mother?"

"Is Andrew in the garden? Was that he who looked?"

"Oh, no—he isn't there—"

"What day is this?"

"Friday—"

"He will come tomorrow. Are there flowers? Have flowers in the vases—"

This went with knifelike terror to

In her heart she moaned

"Now speak—very little, perhaps—her face is dying now—"

Nora Lee said: "I have money—I have a thousand dollars. You didn't know this, no one but Dane knew. Miss Andrew gave it to me for a present. He said to keep it to myself. He made me take it— The doctor says you cannot teach. He says you dare no teach. Mother please—dictated a letter. It was to the school board in Siskiyou. She asked for recommendations. She asked if her old place in the Butte Valley were open.

Nora Lee protested. Her heart seemed breaking—or to go back to that icy desolation—to the gaunt broken mountains. She said: "You cannot teach—oh mother—you can not. I will work."

"It will be months before you're ready—my niña—"

"You mean we have no money—"

the young girl's heart. That awful smile on Margaret's white, tragic face—oh, worse than death would be a thing like this—

She said to young Dane Herrick in the nights he came to sit with her—she turned to him with a passion of terror: "I don't know what to do, or where to turn."

The laughing, boyish eyes grew strong: You have me, Nora Lee. I wouldn't leave you alone—"

He came over and turned her dark, vivid face to his. There were blue shadows under the sapphire eyes. She smiled, but in her heart she moaned: 'You could not take her place. I am afraid of life—afraid of death—no one can take her place—not yet—"

She said to the doctor: "Is my mother dying?"

"No. Her heart is very weak. The pneumonia left it weak years ago—"

"I know—but she forgets things that have happened."

"She seems to have had a great shock. She is improving"

"If her mind—"

"Don't worry—her mind will be all right—"

She went back to Margaret's bed and, stooping, kissed the thin, delicate hands.

Margaret said softly: 'Are you crying, Nora Lee? Are those tears I feel on my hands?" It was the voice of old—gentle yet strong.

"You must not cry. I am well now. I will soon be up again—better than before—"

"Oh, do you mean it? You feel well? Mother, don't turn your face away—"

"No—I shall not. We must bear what comes"

"You remember—all—do you?"

Memory Returns

Margaret's eyes met hers, serene and brave: "Yes, Nora Lee. I remember all. We are alone now."

Her hands went swiftly to shield her face. She said slowly and with heavy pain: "Would you like to go away, Nora Lee? Would you like to sell this house and let us go away?"

"Oh, no!"

A long silence: "I think we must."

And in a few days she made Nora Lee bring paper to the bed. She dictated a letter. It was to the school board in Siskiyou. She asked for recommendations. She asked if her old place in the Butte Valley were open.

Nora Lee protested. Her heart seemed breaking—or to go back to that icy desolation—to the gaunt broken mountains. She said: "You cannot teach—oh mother—you can not. I will work."

"It will be months before you're ready—my niña—"

WAYS OF A HUSBAND

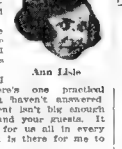
SEQUEL TO "WHEN A GIRL MARRIES"

By Ann Lisle

"JIM, you wouldn't put Park out if doing so meant risking his mind or his sanity?" I cried desperately.

"Aren't you exaggerating?" asked Jim coldly.

"Suppose you ask the doctors?" I managed to say coldly.



Ann Lisle

"Suppose I do. But there's one practical question you haven't answered. This apartment isn't big enough to hold me and your guests. It is too small for us all in every sense. What is there for me to do?"

"If Park is sane enough to get on without the one person who can manage him now, Mabel can go to Aunt May's," I replied coldly.

"To the Hendleys?" Are they ready to take her?"

"Ralph has arranged it," I answered

"Ralph! I thought I'd find him in this. That's about the last straw!" jeered Jim. "He's running my affairs now—"

"You've always liked Ralph," I protested, goaded to the edge of desperation by the unfairness of this. "You've encouraged our friendship. I suppose Ralph's kindness and unfailing friendship have saved you from a lot of things you didn't want to bother doing for me. But now you're so much under Jeanie's influence that whatever or whoever stands by me becomes an object of hatred at once.

"Are you insulting me by hinting that I let Jeanie do my thinking for her?" demanded Jim.

"Well, don't you?" I countered, too hard driven to care about placating Jim.

"I do not!" he thundered. "But I'd a darn site rather get Jeanie's account of things than this hysterical, emotional, stubborn story you've given me."

"Jim!" I protested.

But he would not stop

Without apology, Mabel's voice broke in on Jim. And the next moment Mabel came into the room, dressed in her street clothes and carrying her little traveling bag.

"There won't be any scandal, Jim," she said quietly. "And if there were, do you think I'd let it touch Anne? I'm going to the Hendleys to stay under their protection. And as soon as Bonnie Buchanan can be located I'm going to divorce him. I won't have any mercy on him—"

"Do you think you'll get off scot-free?" demanded Jim.

"I know I will," answered Mabel proudly. I haven't even given the appearance of doing anything wrong."

She turned to me quickly and said in a gentle voice which seemed near the breaking point: "I've seen Park, Anne. He's very

SOME SURPRISE RECIPES

SOMETIME when you are really pressed for something to vary the every-day cooking routine, look on a special shelf as I do and be surprised to find what a good menu of unusual dishes you have at hand.

I have told you in recent talks about some of the delicious [illegible] mix with Grape-Nuts. Wheat Biscuit and Corn Flakes. We use Grapenuts and the Malt Breakfast Food, the other servants in the house work for you in making appetizing and nourishing dishes.

Most of us are familiar with Grape-Nuts puddings, recipes for which I have given you in previous talks, and here are some new ways to use the dear old cereal:

RECIPE NO 506.

GRAPENUTS RAISIN PIE.

½ cup Grapenuts.
½ cup raisins, seeded and chopped.
1½ cups brown sugar
2¼ cups hot water
¼ cup vinegar.
3 tablespoons butter
[illegible]
1 teaspoon cinnamon.
½ teaspoon nutmeg
[illegible]

[illegible]

RECIPE NO. 507.

GRAPENUTS FRUIT CAKE.

1 cup Grape-Nuts.
1 cup water.
1 cup brown sugar.
½ cup lard or butter.
1 cup raisins.
1 teaspoon cinnamon.
½ teaspoon nutmeg
1½ cups flour.
1 level teaspoon soda.
1 level teaspoon baking powder.
1 level teaspoon salt.
2 eggs.

[illegible]

RECIPE NO 508.

GRAPE-NUTS COOKIES

1 egg.
1 cup sugar.
½ cup shortening.
½ cup Grape-Nuts.
½ cup sour milk or buttermilk
1 teaspoon vanilla.
1 teaspoon soda
2½ cups flour (good measure).

[illegible]

RECIPE NO 509.

GRAPE-NUTS QUEEN PUDDING.

1 cup Grape-Nuts
1 quart scalded milk.
2 eggs, separated
1 cup sugar.
1 tablespoon butter.
1 lemon, grated rind and juice.
2 tablespoons powdered sugar.

Mix the Grape-Nuts, milk, egg yolks, sugar, butter and lemon rind together, pile well and bake about 1 hour, or until set. Take juice of lemon and beat over top of pudding and then frost with whites of 2 eggs beaten stiff with 2 tablespoons of powdered sugar. Set in oven until delicately brown and serve cold. This is an unusual dessert.

Friend of Curley Pays Tribute to Him as Product of Hard Work

MR. AND MRS. CURLEY AND THEIR SEVEN CHILDREN
Rear row, Mary, Dorothea. Front row, George, Mayor Curley, Frances, Mrs. Curley, James M., Jr., and Paul. Seated, Leo.

The Boston American is pleased to print the following tribute to Mayor Curley by one of his most steadfast admirers. This testimonial to the Mayor is published here in the spirit of fairness. It represents only the opinion of the writer.

By GEORGE E. PHELAN,
Manager of the George R. White Fund.

I have known James M. Curley for many years and in those years I have learned to have a warm regard and a high respect for him and a sincere admiration for his character and achievement.

It is difficult to separate the public man and his activities from the private man in his private capacity as son, husband, father and friend who has my affection, and as of the latter I speak.

No man can get the full measure of another's character and personality from his public conduct and activity; the glare of publicity that falls upon him exaggerates and distorts his strength and weakness and gives to the picture an appearance of unreality. It is only in the calm and peace of the home, in the places and conditions free from clamor and excitement of the platform and office, that affection that the real man is seen and that is the man who has captured my affection.

"INDOMITABLE ENERGY"

James M. Curley's life in many ways has followed American classic lines for whatever he is, he is the product of hard work, invincible courage, unconquerable energy and resolution to conquer the adverse circumstances into which he was born.

He was born here in Boston into an honest, hardworking family that had few of this world's goods but which did give him a standard of conduct to live by, a clean, God-fearing home to live in and a sound training in the simple faith and old-fashioned moralities of his people from which he has never departed.

He attended the public schools of Roxbury, but owing to the death of his father was obliged to work—before and after school hours and late into the evening—in a drug store, during the last three years of his school life, which terminated when he was fifteen years of age.

This course was necessary in order that he might contribute to the support of his family, and without any repining at his hard lick he continued bravely in the duty of sharing the burden his father laid down when he died.

The boy was endowed with unusual native ability; he had the ambition for knowledge and the love of learning that are instinctive in all his race and are an inheritance from a past in which these things were [illegible] of his people. He found in books and their reading, in study and application in his [illegible] Greek, the education, part fortune, prevented him from getting [illegible] from the schools.

"DREAMER OF DREAMS."

James M. Curley is a dreamer of dreams, a man of visions, who has labored to translate his dreams and his visions into realities; one living in an age and in a place where every forward and upward step has represented a battle, he has managed to keep the essential and unchanging soul of his people under a succession of practical politicians.

He had no such advantages, he was inflamed by an Americanism based on the church, and whosoever of his detractors have read Washington and Lincoln; to him the principles of American democracy represented the creed of humanity and his faith in them was developed before the revolution of the plain people [illegible] grew up around and his knowledge of their homes and needs and those who meet the Curley of private life soon learn how deeply his whole nature is affected and colored by this faith.

He does not carry his heart on his sleeve; but there are certain phases of the life around him that always have [illegible] and he despises [illegible] and pretense.

His domestic life is clean and unassailable. He loves and family are the center of his life and its inspiration. He has an open heart and hand for the poor, the unfortunate, the disheartened; he loves little children and has an infinite pity for the aged and infirm, and a fiery hatred of [illegible] and while he has compassion for the weak and wayward he has a bolder contempt for those who prey upon human credulity, simplicity and inexperience.

The husband of a woman of character and charm and the father of a fine group of children, he paces duty and loyalty to the wife and family among the cardinal virtues, and he views the laxities of modern family life as the greatest danger to our civilization and a serious threat to the progress of sane American democracy.

"LOVER OF BOOKS"

He may discuss these things quietly with his friends; but he has no taste for the role of the preacher and crusader, preferring to let his own practice and example tell their lesson.

Curley is an avid lover of books and a constant reader of them his taste running to history, biography, philosophy and the literature that touches human life and experience.

He has a fine mind and keen intelligence; he knows how little years, races, civilizations and changing conditions have altered the fundamental nature of men and women; and he delights to find the old classic writers of Greece and Rome telling of the humanity of their dead days and recognizing in their characters the same human frailties and motives we find in the life of today.

Curley is essentially an out-of-doors man, and loves the games and sports that take him out in the open fields and roads, and one who tramps the trails and hills with him as I have done will learn much of the real human Curley, who loves clean sports, who likes his fellows, who has a sense of humor he keeps in the control to guide and illuminate his thought, and who can see through the mask of humbug and hypocrisy.

Out of doors with those he respects and esteems and in whose good faith and sincerity he has confidence he is at his best and shows the real Curley; the man who is still a boy and who can speak with [illegible] enthusiasm of the men and practices that have made humanity better in world sweeter and life more worth living.

[illegible] marvels at the wide reach of his human and literary interests and the extent of his genuine culture and knowledge; for not being a product of the schools he has learned—by the hard test of experience—the thought of the schools as written in books and the product of the schools as he has met it in the world.

His mind is open and alert; if he has opinions which experience and sound counsel show him are inaccurate or erroneous, he will change them: not through instability of thought, but from that higher common sense which prefers truth and right to pride of opinion.

He has an uncanny power of reading men and motives and is a shrewd judge of human nature and the passions and emotions that sway it; and the gift—in conjunction with his solid self-education—makes him a difficult man to corner in argument or trap in debate.

Some imagine that Curley is vindictive because he resents bad faith and crooked dealing, but I have found him singularly just and generous in his judgments and one whose resentments are like grass fires—hot and soon over, yet, while forgetting resentments, the deceiver never recovers the full confidence of the man he has tried to deceive. This, to my thinking, is a sound defensive and protective attitude and not vindictiveness; and, while he forgives with his heart, he cannot forget with his mind. He refuses to practice self-deception.

To have enjoyed friendly associations with this man during the past years has been to me a constant source of pleasure. This man of letters, this man of vision with an ability to not only conceive but to accomplish, this man who has found the real joy of living in service, and has exemplified in such a marked degree, those words of Woodrow Wilson when he said:

'Do you covet distinction?
You will never get it by serving yourself
Do you covet honor?
You will get it only as a servant of mankind.'

For Volume — on dry batteries

What tube will you use for loudspeaker volume? There's the heavy duty so-called "power amplifier" tube. And there's the Radiotron WD-11 or WD-12 that gives you loudspeaker volume on dry batteries.

One WD-11 or WD-12 Radiotron will easily handle sufficient volume for the ordinary living room. For greater volume, two of these tubes, used in a "push-pull" stage of audio amplification, will pass more volume than a six volt tube—at considerably less expense.

No matter how small or how big your set—use WD-11's or WD-12's for audio frequency! They are efficient—economical—free from electrical noises!

Radiotrons WD-11 and WD-12 are the same except for the base.

Radiotron WD-12 has a standard navy type base. Use it to change your set to dry battery operation. Ask your dealer today.

DTW Imported German Collapsible Loop
Baltimore Radio Show Just Over

From the Baltimore News:

The center of attraction is the German collapsible loop, which in look and efficiency far surpasses any similar bit of apparatus on exhibition. No description can do these loops justice. They will delight the eye as the lover of good workmanship, and they are just as efficient in service as in looks.

Mr. Lane of the Boston Post says:

Undoubtedly if made in this country few of us could afford to buy it. You cannot buy a loop that will equal this German production, either mechanically or electrically.

FAMOUS FIRSTS

By Mark Stuyvesant.

"THERE is only one God and Mohammed is his prophet."

More than a hundred million people living in Africa, Asia and Eastern Europe at the present time make this statement at least once a day. It is a religion which has lasted already nearly fourteen hundred years, and its vitality is enormous, as anybody who has visited Mohammedan countries can attest.

Mohammedanism is a combination of the beliefs of the early Christians, the Jews and the Arabs of the fifth century put into a book called the Koran by an Arab chief named Mohammed who was born in Mecca, in Arabia about 570 A. D.

At the time of his birth the inhabitants of Asia Minor, Syria, Palestine and Egypt were Christians, highly civilized and subjects of the Roman Emperor in Constantinople. The cause of Arabia contained large numbers of Jews who had fled from Christian persecutions. The Arabs themselves believed in a supergod, but they had raised up a lot of minor gods as well, whom they worshipped more than they did the great god.

Unlike Christ Mohammed believed that those who did not worship his god should be put to the sword. He became a general, heading an army of fanatics. He soon forced the people of Mecca to join his standard, and by attacking cities and giving inhabitants the choice of professing Islam or being killed he converted most of Arabia. The Arabs did not have a powerful religion like Christianity or Judaism to make them martyrs, which explains why they joined Islam with such ease.

Mohammed was collecting all his forces to attack the Greek Roman Empire when he died in 632 A. D. It remained for his successors to overrun the Greek nations in Asia and to conquer Persia. When the Turks conquered the Arabian Empire they became converted to Mohammedanism and carried on the warfare of Islam against the Christians to the gates of Vienna.

THE BEST JOKE I EVER HEARD

The Boston American will pay $1 for "Best Joke" published. Address "Best Joke," Boston American.

"Please, boy," said the wealthy motorist, "I want some gasoline and please get a move on! You will never get anywhere in the world unless you have push. Push is energy, too. When I was young I pushed, and that was what got me where I am."

"Well, gentleman," said the boy, "I pushing as much as I can, but I reckon you'll have to push again, cause we ain't got a drop of gas in the place."

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By Dr. F. X. Mahoney,
Boston Health Commissioner

GO about the campus at Yale or Harvard, Columbia or any other great university and you will see many professors and students with armfuls of books, walking with gaze fixed ahead or downward, head thrust forward and shoulders stooped.

Dr. Mahoney.

It's the classic "student's stoop."

Those who develop this posture are "digs." They take their studies very seriously. They rarely if ever belong to the crew, the football squad, the baseball nine or the hockey team.

The posture has generally been recognized as an affectation.

It is not.

The student's stoop has a perfectly well-demonstrated physiological basis.

By thrusting the head and shoulders forward, the actual distance between the heart and brain is lessened and the resistance to the flow of blood from the heart to the brain is materially diminished.

In this way the student's stoop helps good thinking by helping the brain to a good supply of blood.

Stimulants such as coffee, tea, chocolate and alcohol are frequently used to keep up the supply of blood to the brain for thinking purposes. This habit is not conducive to clear thinking. It tends to confusion of thought, of which drunkenness, delirium and ecstacy are extreme manifestations. The reaction from such over-stimulation always tends to mental depression.

It is far better to cultivate the student's stoop or to lie in bed and study than to rely on any form of stimulant. It is better to overcome brain fag by sleep than by any other means.

QUESTIONS ANSWERED

Am 21 years of age and have such a long nose that I hate to go anywhere. Would it be all right to use nose shapers?—M. M., Milford.

We would not advise the use of any of the so-called "nose shapers."

My baby vomits a lot after eating. What is he causing it?—MRS. R., Roxbury.

There is probably some error of feeding that is the cause of the baby's trouble. Would advise you to consult your family physician, or take the child to the Children's Hospital, 300 Longwood avenue, Boston.

SMART SAYINGS OF CLEVER CHILDREN

The Boston American will pay $1 for published smart sayings. Address "Smart Sayings," Boston American.

My little cousin was visiting me in the country. There was a hen making a lot of noise. She said to my aunt, "Why is the hen cackling so much?" Mother replied, "Why because she is hungry." "Well why don't she lay an egg for herself," said my cousin.

FINANCE

By B. C. Forbes

Do you plan your day?

If so, do you allow in your program a certain time for thinking?

* * *

"When do busy business men think?" is the interesting question asked by a man who does take time to think.

"Well, when do they do their thinking? Or do they indulge in any great amount of thinking?

* * *

The answers, I believe, should run something like this:

A great many men in business, perhaps the majority, provide no time in their schedules for quiet, undisturbed thinking.

A good many arrange their life so that they can spend one or two quiet evenings a week, when they read and take time for more or less reflection.

A great many other busy men are driven along by the force of events day by day and week to week, and are content to give quick decisions all day long on any matter whatsoever which the day's events bring up.

When Frank A. Vanderlip was president of the largest bank in America his whole day at the bank usually was taken up by appointment after appointment, meeting after meeting. I asked him once, "when do you find time to think?" He replied, "As you can well imagine, I certainly can't get the time here in the bank to do any real thinking. I have to do it all at home.

* * *

Harriman, the railroad wizard, once declared that the best thinking is unannounced and find one of his executives with his feet on his desk, apparently doing nothing. Harriman assumed that the man was taking time to think.

* * *

But isn't it true that nine out of every ten would hesitate, would almost be ashamed, to be seen sitting at a desk apparently completely idle? Has it not come to be regarded as proper to appear busy every moment of the day?

(Copyright, 1924, by B. C. Forbes.)

FIRST HUNDRED YEARS PROVE TO BE HARDEST

The first hundred years certainly proved to be the hardest for the Century, Oil Company, a $6,000,000 corporation, and six of its subsidiaries, placed in the hands of a receiver yesterday by Federal Judge Winslow, who appointed E. Bright Wilson, under bond of $10,000.

Southern Pacific a $2,000,000,000 Rail System

Consolidation of Southern Pacific and the El Paso & South western system will be effected by payment today and tomorrow by the Southern Pacific of $29,400,000 of its 5 per cent. 29-year collateral trust bonds and $28,000,000 of its capital stock, thus creating a $2,000,000,000 rail system covering 12,370 miles.

Transaction is understood to be the forerunner of a greater Southern Pacific system, to include eventually the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific. Acquisition of the El Paso & South western gives Southern Pacific 1,133 additional miles of transportation and increases its assets more than $53,000,000.

HARVARD VIEW ON DRUG TRADE IS GIVEN

By FRANK H. MELOON, Financial Editor

John Hays Hammond especially interested the writer as the Gloucester mining magnate spoke by radio from WJZ, New York City, Thursday evening. The chairman of the evening gave a little resume of Mr. Hammond's career, lightly adventurous career. When the Bay State man came "on the air" he had been embarrassed by the glowing introduction given him, whereas it was the world's idea that too many of the high spots in the life of Hammond had been omitted. Evidently Mr. Hammond can be made to cry "Enough!" much more easily by praise than by battle.

In the wholesale drug trade the past year was one of distinct improvement, according to Bulletin 46 of the Harvard Bureau of Business Research entitled "Operating Expenses in the Wholesale Drug Business in 1923."

"On the basis of the facts brought out by this survey," says the Bulletin, "there appear to be no substantial grounds for apprehension as to what the future holds in store for the trade. To be sure, there is room for improvement in many quarters with resulting low gross margins. Yet these conditions apparently have served as a spur to hasten the achievement of economies in operating expenses.

"The results for the year 1923 exhibited a distinct improvement as compared with those for 1922. This improvement was accomplished primarily through a reduction in the average ratio of total expense. Furthermore the firms that secured a higher rate of net profit for 1923 than the average for all firms reporting were those whose total expense ratio was below the average. It is indicated, therefore, that under present-day conditions wholesale druggists must depend for a favorable net profit showing primarily on the achievement of economies in operating expenses rather than on extension of gross margin."

On the whole net profits increased. The average firm, based on the statistics from the 117 firms whose figures were considered in the Bulletin, had net sales of $1,100,000, a gross margin of 17 per cent. of this amount, total expense of 15.6 per cent. and a net profit of 1.4 per cent. and a stock-turn of 3.9 times during the year.

The Bulletin contains a seventy-five page discussion of current conditions in the field, together with the causes of strong business within the industry. Each item of expense is analyzed in detail, showing the ratio of spending, and the common figure for each item is given for the trade as a whole. Subsequent tables show the results according to the volume of net sales, according to geographic location, according to size of cities, and according to the rate of stock-turn.

This study is one of the nine annual studies now being made by the Bureau into the costs of doing business. Each study is financed by each individual trade.

The purpose of these studies is threefold: first, to provide with reliable standards of objective by which they can measure their own results; second, to assist trade national associations in bringing about a better understanding of the services and functions of the firms engaged in the industry, and, third, especially to provide for teaching purposes in the Harvard Business School accurate and up-to-date information in regard to the management problems of this important trade.

Boston Notes

PORTSMOUTH, N. H., will receive bids until November 5 for purchase of $30,000 4¾ per cent. school bonds.

BOSTON STOCK EXCHANGE members meet next week to consider making brokerage rates conform to new rates in effect in New York.

NUMEROUS Boston brokers are already charging the new New York rates for stock transactions.

DEPARTMENT of Public Utilities has recommended to December her 1 proposed increases on private branch exchange rates asked by New England Telephone.

NEW HAVEN Railroad is asking bids on 360,000 to 410,000 net tons of high volatile bituminous coal, to be delivered annually at tar-coal discharging plant at South Boston.

WEST SPRINGFIELD has awarded to Harris, Forbes & Co., at 1h0.83 $15,000 4 per cent. Junior High School bonds, payable 1923 to 1942, inclusive.

Grains Are Lower

Chicago grains were lower: Friday: Wheat: December 1.40⅝ to 1.41, May 1.46⅛ to 1.46⅝, July 1.31 to 1.31⅛; corn, December 1.03⅛ to 1.03⅝, may 1.08 to 1.09⅛, July 1.03⅛ to 1.03⅜; oats, December 48 to 48⅛, may 54 to 54⅝.

CAST IRON PIPE AT RECORD TOP

In New York Stock Exchange dealings Sears Roebuck and Associated Dry Goods set record tops.

The buying movement gained momentum as trading progressed with influential industrials assuming the leadership. U. S. Steel crossed 109, Baldwin touched 120 and American Can, selling ex-dividend 1¼, sold at 133⅝.

The advance of three points in U. S. Cast Iron Pipe common which attained a new price at 118⅝ was due to covering by traders who had sold short on the announcement of a court decision in favor of preferred stockholders.

In the railroad group Southern Railway, Wabash preferred A, Missouri Pacific preferred and Northern Pacific made the best showing. General Baking soared 6½.

General Electric, American Sugar Refining, May Department Stores and Virginia Railway & Power sold two or more points above Thursday's close.

In Boston Stock Exchange transactions Edison gained two points, United Fruit and Eastern Steamship were each up a point higher. Most changes were fractional.

"Inspected" Used Car Bargains and Insured

Look on the Windshield for Certificate

Every used car advertised on this page has undergone a rigid inspection. The Boston American employs expert mechanics to make these tests.

Only an "INSPECTED" car can receive the blue certificate of inspection. It is your protection and safeguard.

If you do not see the blue Certificate on the windshield of the car you want to buy, ask the dealer to have an inspection made, by telephoning the Boston American, Liberty 4000. No charge nor obligation.

Cars which pass our inspection are, of course, the good cars. Thus, the list below contains the pick of the USED CAR market in Boston. All types of cars, at all prices, and all inspected.

The Boston American will help you select a Used Car Bargain at just the price you can afford to pay.

Attacking Candidates

Foolish, Uncalled for

Thomas Marshall, Vice-President in Woodrow Wilson's administration, denounces the attacks made on President Coolidge.

There is no good excuse for attacking ANY ONE of the three candidates. Mr. Coolidge, as everybody knows perfectly well, is an absolutely honest man, a poor man, well meaning, who has no stronger desire than to leave a good name to his surviving son.

La Follette is just as honest as Calvin Coolidge. He is entitled to the admiration and the thanks of his fellow citizens, having spent his life in the public service, true to his convictions throughout, a courageous, sincere fighter.

Davis' environment has been different from that of the other two. He is a well-trained lawyer, and naturally, in the course of his profession, because of his legal ability, he has attracted very rich clients, J. P. Morgan & Co., the Standard Oil, the big telephone company, etc. Only big concerns can pay big lawyers what they are worth. But there is no reason for suggesting that Mr. Davis in office would be influenced by the clients that made him rich.

The question for the voter is: Which would be better for the United States, the election of Davis or the election of Coolidge, the election of La Follette being, as is well known, impossible this time?

Would the election of Coolidge or of Davis be the better for the country, for continued prosperity, for full employment, and especially for the postponing of the hard times that are bound to come sooner or later when this country and the rest of the world realize what that war really cost?

A Little Comfort

Somebody Pays

Those "red, radical Bolshevists" that General Dawes attacks so mercilessly, will find some comfort in the publicity of income tax returns. They may shiver with horror at some of the big incomes revealed. They would shiver a good deal more if they knew the real size of the incomes before "legal deductions."

But it must comfort them to find that the big steel company, for instance, pays more than $15,000,000 income tax, the Southern Pacific Railroad more than $5,000,000, etc. Even Jack Dempsey paid $90,000.

Publicity of income tax returns shows that John W. Davis, Democratic candidate, paid $84,425.20. His enemies of the radical camp will gloat over that, and produce figures to show that Mr. Davis' prosperous clients must have paid him several hundred thousand dollars a year.

Mr. Davis will be able to reply, "At least I paid my income tax."

He knows, which the radical doesn't, that his entire legal income in a year is much less than individual fees paid to certain lawyers.

What's This?

"Respectable" Money for La Follette

One very capitalistic newspaper is horrified at the news that "La Follette party leaders are lolling in luxury." And that isn't the half of it. The money that pays for this "lolling" is supplied by Mrs. Williard D. Straight, widow of a J. Pierpont Morgan & Company partner, and daughter of William C. Whitney, who got many millions out of street cars and politics.

Respectability is shocked to think that such respectable money should be contributed by an intelligent young woman to help La Follette.

That's what happens often, however.

From Galton's "Heredity" you learn that the daughter inherits the father's power more often than son inherits it. The daughter of a rich man, instead of using her energies piling up more money which would be foolish, often tries to do something real. Mrs. Straight is wise in her view that it is desirable to give new ideas a chance and even to let them "loll" if they want to.

England Hates Slavery

Give Her Credit

Give England credit for one thing, freedom from slavery goes with the British flag. Wilberforce and other Britishers made the first effective protest against slavery.

And where the English have gone they have fought slavery everywhere. In India they stopped marriages of girls eight, nine and ten years old and the burning alive of widows —considerably worse than slavery.

Now in Hong Kong, a British colony, a law will prevent Chinese families buying children to be used as slave girls.

As usual the difficulty is with the slaves themselves. They prefer slavery in rich families to hard life at home.

In a similar way some of our dear, clinging vine ladies in the United States protested against female suffrage. They didn't want to have to use their little brains, preferring to let "my husband" do it.

"Worse Than a Crime"

It's Foolish Talk

An able lawyer, talking for the Pennsylvania Railroad, says that great public service organiza'n "has the right to attack La Follette on the bills of fare" distributed in dining cars.

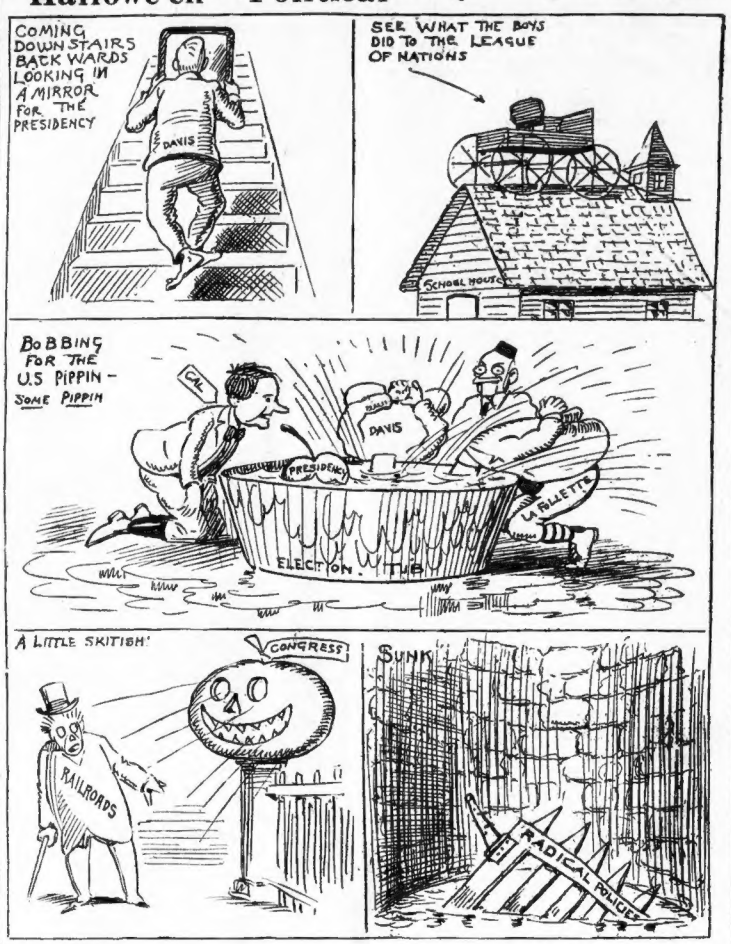
A railroad may have the RIGHT, but if it USES that right you may say of that railroad, and incidentally of the man that defends the right, that it lacks intelligence. "It is worse than a crime—it is a blunder," as Talleyrand said.

A railroad and its managers are stupid if they deliberately stir up just cause for public indignation. And that's what they do when they insult any considerable number of voters of their candidate.

Some day, election will put into the White House a man —DREADFUL as that sounds—who would rather see the government control the railroads than the railroads controlling the government.

Railroad owners should remember that. They won't ALWAYS run the nation's show.

Hallowe'en---Political -:- By T. E. Powers



EVERY DAY SECRET OF ATTAINMENT

By DR. FRANK CRANE

EVERY day!

In those two words lies the secret of all attainment.

It's not what we do once, with all our hearts, and with every splendid ounce of strength, that counts, so much as the things we've been doing every day, whether we felt like it or not.

Every day! Therein is mastery. The marvelous, velvet, utterly exquisite beauty of such piano-playing as Paderewski's, or such violin performance as Maud Powell's—it looks spontaneous, but it is the result of many a hateful day's laborious routine.

Every day! That is the road to perfection. The speaker who can hold and charm an audience, the debater quick and ready and not to be confused, the baseball player, the woman always socially at ease—everybody, in fact, that can do anything well owes that poise and finish to the slow efforts of every day.

No matter how gifted an actor, how naturally endowed, he cannot be a master without infinite practice.

Young people do not realize the tremendous cumulative power that lies in time. Take ten years. Say you are twenty. By the time you are thirty what enormous efficiency you might build up if you would only use every day a certain amount of time.

Almost everybody wastes enough hours in ten years to get a doctor's degree in any university.

In ten years you might be speaking and reading fluently Spanish or French or Japanese, you might be an authority upon geology, botany, chemistry, English literature, history, or whatever fits your ambition, if you would only be faithful every day.

Every day! The universe is constructed on routine. The sun rises every day, the stars revolve, the seasons come and go by schedule, your heart beats and your lungs fill and empty as regularly as the clock ticks, every generation of men or of animals is the result of numberless preceding generations, over and over again Nature tries her hand, and her matchless perfection is only the stored-up treasure of endless practice.

And in character every day means even more than anywhere else. The most honest man is the man who has been honest every day; the most virtuous woman is she who has behind her present virtue the inertia of a whole life full of virtuous thought and deed; the happiest person is the one who has long practiced being happy, and that soul is coolest and surest in a crisis who every day has schooled himself in self-mastery.

No force is so great in any man as the stored-up power of what he has been doing every day.

Just Out of Hospital

Helping Hand Editor:

I am the father of seven children and since I have come back from the hospital, I haven't had steady work, only two or three days a week. If some of your kind readers would send me a pair of pants, waist 36, leg 28, and a coat, size about 40, I would be very thankful.

Mr. L.

Good Warm Coat

Helping Hand Editor:

Please send me the address of someone near as you can to us, Boston will do. I have a good warm coat for a girl 14; also one for one 12 or 13 years old. Mine have outgrown them and I want to see them go to someone some good. I have eight children of my own, so know just how hard it is when sickness and no work keeps one behind all the time.

Mrs. H.

Thank you for your kind offering, Mrs. T., mother of three girls, but the ages you mention, will indeed be grateful to you for these coats.

In Need of Help

Helping Hand Editor:

My father is dead and I have three sisters and two brothers younger than myself. I am 17 and in my last year in high school. My mother works to put my sister and myself through school. I am very ambitious to finish this year, but if I don't get a little help, I won't be able to as I am destitute for clothes and shoes. I can't do any work after school as I care for the younger children. We have all we can do to get enough to eat and a shelter over our heads, but often this term I will be able to work and then it won't make it so hard on my mother. I wear size 33 in clothing and a six shoe.

F. C.

Many Things to Give

Helping Hand Editor:

If you will send me the name of some family with a girl about seven, I could send them a coat, shoes hat and a couple of dresses. Also have a boy's coat for about the same size.

Mrs. W.

Many thanks. Mrs. L. P. has a girl and boy about the ages you mention and can make good use of this clothing.

Needs Parlor Stove

Helping Hand Editor:

Will you please try to obtain for me an old parlor stove or some warm bedding. I need them very much and have not the means to buy them as I am a widow with three children to care for and find it hard to get along. My oldest boy, 15, belongs to the Boy Scouts, but cannot go in parades as his uniform is so faded it will not pass inspection. If anyone has a scout suit that he has outgrown he would be pleasing an orphan very much if he would pass it along.

Mrs. M. H.

Can Make Over Things

Helping Hand Editor:

I am a mother of three children, two girls, four and three years old, and a boy two, and am expecting another child soon. Any shoes or clothing of any kind would be appreciated as I could make over anything. Also I would like some baby clothes. My husband makes very small wages, and when I pay the rent and buy groceries at the end of the week, I have hardly any money left. I would also be grateful for a pair of shoes, size 4½.

Mrs. N. L.

What Year Do We Live In?

1789 or 1924?

By MANLEY O. HUDSON

Bemis Professor of International Law in the Harvard Law School

(From the Harvard Alumni Bulletin)

THE referendum campaign in Massachusetts with reference to the Child Labor Amendment has brought out some arguments which have greatly astonished me. . . .

It is clear to me that the employment of children can be effectively regulated and controlled in the United States only by NATIONAL action.

If one has not reached this conclusion I can understand his objection to the amendment. But until this year I had supposed that the NATIONAL character of the problem would be better appreciated in Massachusetts than anywhere in America, for ever since I first came to Massachusetts I have heard people talk of their desire for better labor legislation "if only the South could have it, too."

I do not fear in the slightest the increase in the power of the Federal Government which this Amendment would involve. It may be partly because my ancestors were supporters of the Confederacy in the War of 1861 that I conceive this country to be a welded nation, and not simply a union of independent States.

In my view it is essential, therefore, that the Federal Government should have adequate powers and I am hospitable to an attempt to deal with the employment of children in the most effective way possible—by common and simultaneous action of the people of the whole country, reckoned through their representatives in Congress.

Unlimited Power.

But some of my friends argue that the Amendment would be very dangerous in that it would give to Congress an unlimited general power.

The truth is that MOST of the powers of Congress are given in just such general terms as those of the Child Labor Amendment. If anybody doubts this, I would ask him to read Section 8 of Article 1 of the Constitution.

If the framers who gave Congress many general powers, including the power "to borrow money on the credit of the United States," to "regulate commerce with foreign nations and among the several States," to "coin money," and to "declare war."

If Congress CANNOT be trusted with general legislative powers, the framers made a great mistake and the Constitution should be changed radically. In that event, I should not know how we could meet ANY of our national problems.

The federal nature of our government has been amply recognized in the drafting of the Amendment.

It is because our Federal Government is one of enumerated powers that the problem now confronts us. The powers of Congress are conferred only by the Constitution. Many people had supposed, Congress itself supposed until a recent Supreme Court decision, that the enumerated powers of Congress included some power to regulate child labor.

Seems Absurd.

It seems to me absurd for one to say that this enumeration cannot be increased without destroying the Federal Union." Are we to suppose that the enumeration of legislative powers as between the States and the Federal Government is fixed for all time as it was determined in 1789 so that the people must not change it?

Will the country's slightest readjustment to meet the country's changing needs destroy the essential character of our Government?

I cannot believe that the nation hangs on such a slender thread.

I should have deprecated any introduction into the Amendment of rigid limitations on the manner in which Congress should exercise the power to be granted. The Constitution is not the place for statutory legislation the terms of which ought to be subject to frequent change.

It is often urged as one of the chief objections to the Eighteenth Amendment that it did not stop with giving Congress the power to legislate concerning intoxicating liquors.

The Child Labor Amendment is ADMIRABLY drafted in that respect. It would merely confer the POWER on Congress, and the TERMS of legislation would remain subject to change in accordance with the changing will of the country.

It seems to me patently ridiculous to argue, also, as do some distinguished citizens of Massachusetts in an advertisement appearing in the Boston press on October 17, 1924, that the defeat of this Amendment is "essential to the preservation of the fundamental right of every man to care for the well-being of his children."

Power of State.

If that right could be violated by Congress after the passage of the Amendment it can equally be violated by the Massachusetts Legislature today.

All of our State Legislatures now have the power "to limit, regulate and prohibit the labor of persons under 18 years of age."

Without examining each of our State Constitutions, I think it is not too much to say that almost one of the 48 State Legislatures can now do for its own State the very thing that Congress could do under this Amendment. The State Legislatures today "limit, regulate, control, and prohibit" the labor of persons under 21 years of age.

The adoption of the Amendment would merely substitute the action of ONE legislature, Congress, for the action of FORTY-EIGHT legislatures. To the extent that Congress does not act, the State legislatures would still retain their power. ARE THE MEN WE SEND TO CONGRESS LESS EQUIPPED TO DEAL WITH OUR PROBLEMS IN A REASONABLE WAY THAN THE MEN WE ARE SENDING TO THE STATE LEGISLATURES? I HAD SUPPOSED THEIR CALIBRE WAS SOMEWHAT BETTER.

Equally fantastic is the statement made by the same group of citizens that the Amendment would enable Congress "to interfere in the discipline of each household" and to "take from parents the right and duty to educate and guide their children."

THIS presupposes a complete collapse of ALL the limitations on legislation by Congress. In their unwillingness to trust Congress a general legislative power possessed by 48 State Legislatures some of the opponents of this Amendment show an utter lack of confidence in our system of government and an utter lack of faith in the intelligence and common sense of the American voters.

Properly Drawn.

The Amendment seems to me quite properly drawn. The age might have been put at 16 instead of 18, but, since we are not dealing with legislation but with legislative power, I think it was necessary to put the age at 18 in order to enable Congress to enact uniform measures for the whole country dealing with THE EMPLOYMENT OF PERSONS UNDER 18 AT NIGHT AND IN DANGEROUS TRADES.

I think we can foresee what Congress is LIKELY to do by looking at the Child Labor legislation which was attempted a few years ago and which, without this Amendment, was declared unconstitutional.

The results of THAT legislation, while it was in force, were most satisfactory. They indicate to me that the adoption of the Amendment now proposed is the ONLY PRACTICAL WAY for us in America to deal with a problem which since Lord Shaftesbury's time has been similarly dealt with in England.

WATCH YOUR BALLOT

FOLLOWING is the seventh and last referendum question that the voters of Massachusetts will find on their ballots Nov. 4. It concerns the Child Labor Amendment and is of the utmost importance.

Referendum Question No. 7

Is it desirable that the General Court ratify the following proposed amendment to the Constitution of the United States:—"Section 1. The Congress shall have power to limit, regulate and prohibit the labor of persons under eighteen years of age. Section 2. The power of the several States is unimpaired by this article except that the operation of State laws shall be suspended to the extent necessary to give effect to legislation enacted by the Congress."?

YES
NO

Referendum question No. 7 is the much discussed "child labor" amendment. It simply asks the voter to indicate whether or not he is in favor of an amendment to the Constitution of the United States giving Congress power to limit, regulate and prohibit the labor of persons under eighteen years of age. State laws shall have to be suspended where necessary to comply with the legislation enacted by Congress in respect to the above. Otherwise the power of the States is unimpaired.

THE RHYMING OPTIMIST

By Aline Michaelis

I HAVE no wealth of words to fitly sing your praise, no notes like mocking birds, who tell through Summer days their joy to woods and herds. It seems that you must feel the things my heart would say, which I dare not reveal through any roundelay, my love, in woe or weal. Your love is like a star set high in heaven's blue, bright gleaming from afar to guide me up to you. Your love is like a star! Your love is like a light upon some rock-bound coast, to rescue from the night my spirit, like a light! Your love is like a rose that blooms in desert ground by fragrant spells it throws, my wayward heart a bound. Your love is like a rose! In vain I seek to find its type when love is sweet and kind. Ah, more than star or light ah, more than rose's bloom, your love is life's delight and lives beyond the tomb. Ah, more than star or light!
